Latest Wickersham Reports on Causes of Crime

UNEMPLOYMENT AND PROHIBITORY LAWS AS CAUSES

COMMISSION UNABLE TO SPECIFICALLY DESCRIBE ANY REMEDIES

TWO BULKY VOLUMES OF 250,000 WORDS, CONTAIN THE REPORT

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, Aug. 17.—Unemployment and prohibitory laws were cited repeatedly as causes of crime in the latest Wickersham commission report to President Hoover.

But the commission found in this thirteen of its reports that its task was too great. A majority decided the commission could not specifically determine the causes of crime. Neither could the commissioners prescribe remedies society might profitably administer to cure its crime illness. Two bulky volumes contain the commission's report—about 250,000 words. All but a few paragraphs were written by six sociological experts who investigated for the commission. Repeatedly, these investigators referred to "prohibitory laws" in their search for crime causes. Prohibition of alcoholic beverages was not mentioned except incidentally.

The investigators sifted unemployment and business depression for crime stimuli. In the paragraphs contributed to the report by the commission majority, there was no reference to either prohibitory laws or unemployment. These paragraphs simply expressed the hopelessness of discovering crime causes. Nine members signed the majority report. Judge William S. Kenyon did not sign and Henry W. Anderson wrote a dissenting opinion.

Anderson referred to prohibitory laws which "impose undue and irritating restraints upon normal social and economic activities" or "produce discomfort, irritation and unrest which find natural expression in disrespect for government and in disregard for or resistance to law."

"It cannot be a source of surprise," Anderson continued, "that the conditions produce among even the most social and law-abiding elements of the people an attitude of bewilderment as to law, and hopelessness as to government; among the less law-abiding an attitude of antagonism to law and contempt for government; and a reckless disregard of social and legal restraints among youths who are least controlled by habit, or influenced by social routine."

Anderson severely criticized the American system of development which brought exploitation of land resources to a point now near exhaustion, caused the widest spread between rich and poor in the western world, developed slums in the city and ignorance in the underprivileged country districts, and "made of man a cog in a relentless machine."

"The American people have created," he said, "the largest body of laws and the most complex system of government now in existence as restraints and controls upon individual and social conduct, but every stage in their development has been characterized by a large and ever increasing degree of lawlessness and crime."

"They have engaged in at least one war in every generation."

"No candid investigation can ignore those facts, or the conclusions which they naturally suggest."

Anderson recommended greater facilities for improving home and neighborhood environment; removal of slums and underprivileged areas—"a courageous re-examination of the principles and structures of our social, political, legal and economic systems."

NAUTILUS TO MAKE PERILOUS DASH TO POLE

Advent Bay, Spitzbergen, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—The submarine Nautilus, commanded by Sir Hubert Wilkins, explorer, was ready to depart today on its perilous dash toward the North Pole. Wilkins, who said he hoped to make part of the perilous journey under the polar ice, said all was in good shape.

GANG SHOOTING IS INDICATED BY BULLET TORN BODY

FOUND ON HIGHWAY NEAR WA-CONTA, FIVE MILES EAST OF RED WING

TWO GUNS, ONE IN HAND OF DEAD MAN, OTHER ALONG THE ROAD, ARE FOUND

Red Wing, Minn., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Finding of a bullet riddled body on the highway near Waconta, five miles east of here, today pointed to what officials said undoubtedly was a gang shooting.

Two guns, one in the hand of the dead man and the other further along the road, were found by officials who went to investigate the shooting.

The man, who was not immediately identified, had been shot through the head and again over the heart. He was well dressed and had approximately $500 in his pockets. He was rather tall and appeared to be between 35 and 40 years of age.

Officials working on the case believed that the man had been "taken for a ride," shot in the head in an attempt to escape and then fatally wounded over the heart before his slayers left.

The body was brought to Red Wing. After the body was taken to the Goodhue county morgue, it was revealed that another bullet had pierced the body through the right shoulder.

Signs of terrific struggle were found at the scene of the crime. Apparently, the fatally wounded man had been shot twice in the body but had still fought. His coat and vest had been torn from him in the scuffle. A shot in the head apparently killed him, county authorities said.

When the body was found the dead man was clutching the muzzle of a revolver from which two bullets had been fired. Across the road the other gun lay undischarged. All labels had been removed from the clothing of the dead man and the only clue authorities had to work on was a spectacle case marked with the name of R. S. Churchill, optometrist, 2238 71st St. Authorities planned to check with Chicago police to determine whether Churchill could be found.

Possibility that a woman took part in the killing was seen by authorities who found a woman's tracks in the field just opposite the road. The tracks indicated the woman was running, it was said, and disappeared on hard ground a few feet from where they started.

The time of the fight was placed at about 3 A. M. through the testimony of several farmers living near the death scene. George Kuhfs, farmer, looked at his clock at 3 A. M. when he heard noise of several persons wrangling, he said.

The body was discovered shortly after 3 A. M. by J. M. Frantzel, St. Paul, who saw it lying on the roadway against the bloody guardrail as he drove by. He reported to the authorities and the body was turned over to Russell Edstrom, Goodhue county coroner.

A yellow match folder from the Colonial Hotel, Devils Lake, N. D., and a small red account book were taken from the pockets of the man's suit. Figures in the account book were apparently minor expenses and totaled $108. Columns of figures averaging $15 each apparently were expenses.

The hotel register of the Devils Lake hostelry failed to reveal any clues to the case when checked by the United Press and it was thought the murdered man might have obtained the matches while eating in the hotel cafe.

Special Session of the Legislature is Asked on Account Unemployment

Minneapolis, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—The Minnesota Federation of Labor today was called upon to support a special session of the legislature to deal with unemployment.

The recommendation was made in the annual report of George W. Lawson, secretary, at the opening session of the fifty-fifth annual convention of the federation.

Unemployment was the major topic of both Lawson and E. G. Hall, president. Hall praised Governor Floyd B. Olson's order for a 45 cents an hour minimum wage for highway workers.

Brainerd Dispatch Is Sold

Purchasers Are Experienced Newspaper Men Who Will Maintain High Standard of Paper

F. W. Wieland, owner and publisher of the Brainerd Daily Dispatch, announces that negotiations have been completed for the sale of the daily and weekly Dispatch, the job printing, business and the building from which the Dispatch is published.

He has been associated with the Dispatch and continuously a resident of Brainerd for over 48 years and will continue to operate and publish both papers until September 1st at which time the purchasers will take possession. At that time Mr. Wieland will have reached 70 years of age and will retire from business but will continue to make Brainerd his home.

It is with the deepest regret that he has found it advisable to dispose of the property and withdraw from newspaper work but with satisfaction that the purchasers come with highest recommendations from the communities in which they have lived and published newspapers.

The purchasers chose Brainerd as the most progressive appearing city they saw after surveying the daily newspaper field in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, North and South Dakota and Minnesota.

The purchasers are W. D. Junkin, Chariton, Iowa; H. F. McCollough, Chariton, Iowa; Alan D. Masters, Pawhuska, Okla.; W. J. McGiffin, Kansas City, Mo., and their associates.

The first three will move to Brainerd with their families and become actively engaged in the publication of the Brainerd Daily Dispatch and Weekly Dispatch. Mr. Junkin and Mr. Masters will be co-publishers of the papers, and Mr. McCollough will become circulation manager.

The purchasers have other newspaper interests in the middlewest, controlling or being associated with seven other daily newspapers. These papers are, The Evening Democrat, Fort Madison, Iowa; The Daily News, Booneville, Mo.; The Daily Standard, Excelsior Springs, Mo.; The Journal-Capital, Pawhuska, Okla.; The Ledger, Fairfield, Iowa; The Sentinel-World, Shenandoah, Iowa, and The Daily News, Estherville, Iowa. Several weeklies are also owned by the organization.

The new owners are of mixed political tendencies and announce that the Brainerd papers, like their other properties, will be absolutely independent in politics. Their only announced policy is that of endeavoring to provide publications worthy of confidence in this community, and ones to which they hope, the community will point with pride.

From time to time, as occasion requires, they expect to add new equipment, and they hope to expand the present circulation area of the papers.

They state that no drastic changes are contemplated with regard to the present personnel of the papers.

The new owners will come to Brainerd within the next ten days.

LINDBERGH'S ARE NOW RESTING AT PETROPAVLOVSK

FLOW FROM KARAGINSKI AND ALASKA ENROUTE TO TOKIO

PLAN PROBABLY TO TAKE OFF EARLY TUESDAY FOR MENURU

Tokio, Aug. 18.—(Tuesday)—Thunderstorms south over the Kuril Islands today threatened to delay the departure of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh from Petropavlovsk, Siberia, to Nemuro, their first Japanese port of call.

The Ochiishi radio station here reported storms brewing over the Kurils but it was hoped the skies would clear early so the famous flying couple could go on to Nemuro where an elaborate reception and entertainment had been arranged.

From Nemuro Col. Lindbergh and his wife will fly to Tokio.

Petropavlovsk, Siberia, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Hospitality of this little fishing settlement on Kamchatka peninsula and the need of rest held Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh here today after their flight from Karaginski and Alaska en route to Tokio.

They planned probably to take off early Tuesday for Menuru, last stop before reaching Tokio, where they are due Wednesday.

After inspecting their plane with the typical Lindbergh attention to details and accepting the welcomes of Soviet officials, the fliers rested and wandered about the little settlement, showing interest in the fishing craft which carry the men of the village into the northern ice-chattered waters.

After having planned an early departure, Col. Lindbergh announced he would remain another 24 hours, in order that they might have a full day of rest. They arrived Saturday from Karaginski, 1,500 miles from Nome, their last major stop.

Nemuro and other sections of Japan were stirred today when a report was published that the Lindberghs had taken off for Japan. The report later, however, was denied and definite word was radioed that the flight would not be made before Tuesday.

Crown Point, Ind., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—A. J. Johnson, manager of the Palace Theater, his wife, Fannie, and a moving picture machine operator, Rex Fitch, were released today by two men who kidnapped them, took them many miles in an automobile and robbed them.

The three were held up late last night as they were leaving the theater and were forced to get into the bandits' car. They were released near Highland, Ind., after riding almost all night.

From Mrs. Johnson, the bandits took three rings which she said were valued at about $1,000. Johnson lost $256 in cash. A watch taken from Fitch was returned to him before the release.

GOV. ROSS STERLING ORDERS ALL OIL, GAS WELLS CLOSED

DIRECTS STATE MILITIA, SENT INTO REGION DURING NIGHT, TO ENFORCE DECREE

MORE THAN 1,600 WELLS ARE AFFECTED BY GOVERNOR'S DECREE

Austin, Tex., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Ross Sterling, governor of Texas, today proclaimed martial law in the great east Texas flush oil field.

He ordered every well, both oil and gas, within the boundaries of Upshur, Rusk, Gregg and Smith counties shut down, and directed state militia, sent into the area during the night, to enforce his order.

More than 1,600 wells are affected by the order. Last week these wells, the face of a plea for voluntary shutdown, produced 738,000 barrels of oil daily, to set an all-time record. Only one field in the world, the Kettleman Hills field in California, possesses a greater potential production.

Asserting he was invoking martial law to prevent waste and to put down a state of insurrection, tumult, riot and breach of peace in the fields, Gov. Sterling joined forces with Governor Murray of Oklahoma in a battle against prevailing low crude prices.

The reaction to the move was generally expected to be a drastic upward revision of prices, probably to $1 a barrel, the price demanded by Governor Murray when he proclaimed martial law a few days ago in every flush field in Oklahoma, closing the wells by force.

The action of the Texas governor was not unexpected. Saturday he began the mustering of state troops, and yesterday he ordered them into the fields. Producers had repeatedly petitioned him to place a clamp on the wells.

The governor, in his proclamation, said oil and gas supplies in the vast field "are being unlawfully dissipated and wasted and the land and royalty owners are being robbed of their royalties by unscrupulous and lawless producers, transporters and operators."

"By reason of the reckless, unlawful and criminal handling of producing wells," the 2,000-word proclamation added, "water is being rapidly drawn into the oil sands, thereby creating tremendous physical waste of oil and more than one billion cubic feet of natural gas, rich in gasoline content."

The governor charged there existed in the east Texas field "an organized and entrenched group of crude petroleum and natural gas producers who are in a state of insurrection against the conservation laws of the state, and are in open rebellion against the efforts of the constituted civil authorities of this state to enforce such laws."

The possibility of any organized resistance to the governor's order was considered negligible. Reports from Kilgore were that many of the producers waited the expected shutdown with pleasure, while others were bitter. When Governor Murray closed the Oklahoma wells, his troops had no difficulty, and within a few days he withdrew all but a meager force from the field.

JUMPS TO HIS DEATH WITH NOTE TO GIRL, 2 POEMS IN POCKET

New York, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—With a note to a girl and two poems in his pocket, George Pittsman, Jr., 20, of Branxville, N. Y., today jumped or fell to his death from a rear balcony in the ninth floor office of Dr. John Taylor.

Police said the poems and the note indicated the youth had committed suicide.

The shorter of the two poems, which was typewritten, read: "Goodbye, little sweetheart, till later. The party, the friends now behind I'll miss you, Hun,—It was all such fun. Please forgive me—to show you don't mind."

The second poem, entitled Solitude, read in part: "To you, dear solitude, we leave Our anguish, sorrows, cares, and grief. No more but to forget our hated doom. Your precious moments fly in haste, We grasp firmly, else their waste May plunge us downward to a darker tomb."

"O, God, what have I done to thee That I should be cast in this sea Of writhing serpents furred about my breast."

The foam comes quicker, death comes quicker, Downward drops my boat and quicker; Here I lie on this tumultuous crest."

Police did not reveal the name of the girl to whom the note was addressed.

EARTHQUAKE IN SOUTHWEST OF 3RD DEGREE INTENSITY

WRECKS HOUSES AND THROWS SLEEPERS FROM THEIR BEDS

SHOCKS FELT IN WEST TEXAS AND IN EASTERN NEW MEXICO

Denver, Colo., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—An earthquake of third-degree intensity wrecked houses, threw sleepers from their beds Sunday and caused hundreds to flee their homes in terror in west Texas and eastern New Mexico.

Considerable damage was done but no injuries resulted.

The quake, the first in more than a quarter of a century was described as being just short of "highly destructive." The shocks were recurrent. The main quake lasted 38 minutes and was felt over an area extending from Dallas, Texas, to Tecumseh, N. M.

The quake was apparently centered at Fort Stockton, Texas. A number of houses were wrecked in Valentine, Texas. The brick school building there was badly damaged.

The Comanche Springs, flowing 60 million gallons of clear water a day, flowed muddy for an hour after the quake had subsided.

Chimneys fell at Carlsbad, N. M., and the city standpipe was badly damaged. Reports that the quake damaged the famous underground caverns 30 miles from Carlsbad, were denied by Superintendent Doles and members of the United States park service. No one was in the caverns when the quake occurred about 5 A. M. but tourists went down later.

At El Paso, Tex., dishes toppled from shelves and windows cracked as hundreds fled from their home in their night clothes.

At Roswell, N. M., the final and most pronounced shock was followed by a rumbling, much like the sound of a distant freight.

Algiers, Aug. 17.—A series of earth shocks was felt between 1 and 3 P. M. yesterday in Algiers and other cities including Alma.

Natives were panic-stricken, but no damage was reported.

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 17.—An earth shock of medium intensity was felt here at 10:05 A. M. today. No damage was reported.

The two were apprehended when Penney received a wire from the girl from Blackduck, Minn., asking for funds. Penney wired that the sender be arrested for stealing his automobile.

Johnson identified the couple. Viers, according to his story met Miss Kuhn at Ames through a night club hostess.

PLAN PROBABLY TO TAKE OFF EARLY TUESDAY FOR MENORO

Tokio, Aug. 18.—(Tuesday)—Thunderstorms south over the Kuril Islands today threatened to delay the departure of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh from Petropavlovsk, Siberia, to Nemuro, their first Japanese port of call.

The Ochishii radio station here reported storms brewing over the Kurils but it was hoped the skies would clear early so the famous flying couple could go on to Nemuro where an elaborate reception and entertainment had been arranged.

From Nemuro Col. Lindbergh and his wife will fly to Tokio.

Petropavlovsk, Siberia, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Hospitality of this little fishing settlement on Kamchatka peninsula and the need of rest held Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh here today after their flight from Kagarinski and Alaska en route to Tokio.

They planned probably to take off early Tuesday for Menoro, last stop before reaching Tokio, where they are due Wednesday.

After inspecting their plane with the typical Lindbergh attention to details and accepting the welcomes of Soviet officials, the fliers rested and wandered about the little settlement, showing interest in the fishing craft which carry the men of the village into the northern ice-cluttered waters.

After having planned an early departure, Col. Lindbergh announced he would remain another 24 hours, in order that they might have a full day of rest. They arrived Saturday from Kagarinski, 1,500 miles from Nome, their last major stop.

Nemuro and other sections of Japan were stirred today when a report was published that the Lindberghs had taken off for Japan. The report later, however, was denied and definite word was radioed that the flight would not be made before Tuesday.

GOV. ROSS STERLING ORDERS ALL OIL, GAS WELLS CLOSED

DIRECTS STATE MILITIA, SENT INTO REGION DURING NIGHT, TO ENFORCE DECREE

MORE THAN 1,600 WELLS ARE AFFECTED BY GOVERNOR'S DECREE

Austin, Tex., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Ross Sterling, governor of Texas, today proclaimed martial law in the great east Texas flush oil field.

He ordered every well, both oil and gas, within the boundaries of Upshur, Rusk, Gregg and Smith counties shut down, and directed state militia, sent into the area during the night, to enforce his order.

More than 1,600 wells are affected by the order. Last week these wells, in the face of a plea for voluntary shutdown, produced 738,000 barrels of oil daily, to set an all-time record. Only one field in the world, the Kettleman Hills field in California, possesses a greater potential production.

Asserting he was invoking martial law to prevent waste and to put down a state of insurrection, tumult, riot and breach of peace in the fields, Gov. Sterling joined forces with Governor Murray of Oklahoma in a battle against prevailing low crude prices.

The reaction to the move was generally expected to be a drastic upward revision of prices, probably to $1 a barrel, the price demanded by Governor Murray when he proclaimed martial law a few days ago in every flush field in Oklahoma, closing the wells by force.

The action of the Texas governor was not unexpected. Saturday he began the mustering of state troops, and yesterday he ordered them into the fields. Producers had repeatedly petitioned him to place a clamp on the wells.

The governor, in his proclamation, said oil and gas supplies in the vast field "are being unlawfully dissipated and wasted and the land and royalty owners are being robbed of their royalties by unscrupulous and lawless producers, transporters and operators."

"By reason of the reckless, unlawful and criminal handling of producing wells," the 2,000-word proclamation added, "water is being rapidly drawn into the oil sands, thereby creating tremendous physical waste of oil and more than one billion cubic feet of natural gas, rich in gasoline content."

The governor charged there existed in the east Texas field "an organized and entrenched group of crude petroleum and natural gas producers who are in a state of insurrection against the conservation laws of the state, and are in open rebellion against the efforts of the constituted civil authorities of this state to enforce such laws."

The possibility of any organized resistance to the governor's order was considered negligible. Reports from Kilgore were that many of the producers waited the expected shutdown with pleasure, while others were bitter. When Governor Murray closed the Oklahoma wells, his troops had no difficulty, and within a few days he withdrew all but a meager force from the field.

JUMPS TO HIS DEATH WITH NOTE TO GIRL, 2 POEMS IN POCKET

New York, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—With a note to a girl and two poems in his pocket, George Pittsford, Jr., 20, of Branxville, N. Y., today jumped or fell to his death from a rear balcony in the ninth floor office of Dr. John Taylor.

Police said the poems and the note indicated the youth had committed suicide.

The shorter of the two poems, which was typewritten, read: "Goodbye, little sweetheart, till later. The party, the friends now behind I'll miss you, Hun."

It was all such fun. Please forgive me—to show you don't mind."

The second poem, entitled Solitude, read in part: "To you, dear solitude, we leave Our anguish, sorrows, cares, and grief. No more but to forget our hated doom. Your precious moments fly in haste. We grasp firmly, else their waste May plunge us downward to a darker tomb."

"O, God, what have I done to thee That I should be cast in this sea Of writhing serpents furled about my breast?"

The foam comes quicker, death comes quicker. Downward drops my beat and quicker; Here I lie on this tumultuous crest." Police did not reveal the name of the girl to whom the note was addressed.

EARTHQUAKE IN SOUTHWEST OF 3RD DEGREE INTENSITY

WRECKS HOUSES AND THROWS SLEEPERS FROM THEIR BEDS

SHOCKS FELT IN WEST TEXAS AND IN EASTERN NEW MEXICO

Denver, Colo., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—An earthquake of third-degree intensity wrecked houses, threw sleepers from their beds Sunday and caused hundreds to flee their homes in terror in west Texas and eastern New Mexico.

Considerable damage was done but no injuries resulted.

The quake, the first in more than a quarter of a century was described as being just short of "highly destructive." The shocks were recurrent. The main quake lasted 38 minutes and was felt over an area extending from Dallas, Texas, to Tecumseh, N. M.

The quake was apparently centered at Fort Stockton, Texas. A number of houses were wrecked in Valentine, Texas. The brick school building there was badly damaged.

The Comanche Springs, flowing 60 million gallons of clear water a day, flowed muddy for an hour after the quake had subsided.

Chimneys fell at Carlsbad, N. M., and the city standpipe was badly damaged. Reports that the quake damaged the famous underground caverns 30 miles from Carlsbad, were denied by Superintendent Doles and members of the United States park service. No one was in the caverns when the quake occurred about 5 A. M. but tourists went down later.

At El Paso, Tex., dishes toppled from shelves and windows cracked as hundreds fled from their home in their night clothes.

At Roswell, N. M., the final and most pronounced shock was followed by a rumbling, much like the sound of a distant freight.

Algiers, Aug. 17.—A series of earth shocks was felt between 1 and 3 P. M. yesterday in Algiers and other cities including Alma.

Natives were panic-stricken, but no damage was reported.

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 17.—An earth shock of medium intensity was felt here at 10:05 A. M. today. No damage was reported.

GOVERNOR OLSON CANCELS PROPOSED LEGION ADDRESS

ACTS UPON ADVICE OF HIS PHYSICIANS, TO REMAIN AT GULL LAKE

WILL RETURN TO CAPITOL ONLY IF PRESENT CONDITION IMPROVES

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Upon physicians' orders, Governor Floyd B. Olson today planned to cancel his scheduled address at the American Legion convention at Rochester, his secretary, Vince Day, said.

According to present plans he will not return to the capitol until next week and only then if his present improvement continues, Day said. Olson has been on a rest and diet treatment after being threatened with a nervous and physical breakdown but had planned to address the Legionaires.

Unless a last minute change in plans is made, the governor will not leave the summer home of D. W. Stewart, state game and fish commissioner, on lower Gull lake, until next week.

The governor also cancelled an address before the Minnesota State Federation of Labor meeting in Minneapolis, this afternoon.

In a message to his secretary, Gov. Olson said that his physician, Dr. H. M. Nathanson, had warned of a possible relapse unless he continued the rest and dieting.

Day designated George E. Wallace, state tax commissioner, to speak for the governor at the labor meeting, but named no one for the Legion gathering at Rochester, saying he would have to confer with the governor before so doing.

Two other state officials also were out of the city. Mike Holm, secretary of state, left for Salt Lake City where he will attend the annual convention of secretaries of state, and Attorney General Henry N. Benson left for the northern part of the state on a vacation.

PRECISE ROASTING GIVES COFFEE THE PERFECT FLAVOR

Bulk Methods Can't Equal Flavor That Patented Process Develops in Hills Bros. Coffee

The perfect flavor of coffee is indeed a delight to the taste. But you don't get the perfect flavor, unless your coffee has been roasted evenly. Hills Bros. Coffee always is. It's roasted by the patented, Controlled Roasting process.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. Each berry receives an even roast. None is underdone, none overdone.

Such uniformity is not the case with coffee roasted by ordinary bulk methods. For big batches can't be exactly controlled. The coffee may be roasted a bit too much, or not enough. If either happens, you don't get the perfect flavor that Controlled Roasting never fails to achieve.

Hills Bros. Coffee is strictly fresh, because it's packed in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trademark on the can.

PRECISE ROASTING GIVES COFFEE THE PERFECT FLAVOR

Bulk Methods Can't Equal Flavor That Patented Process Develops in Hills Bros. Coffee

The perfect flavor of coffee is indeed a delight to the taste. But you don't get the perfect flavor, unless your coffee has been roasted evenly. Hills Bros. Coffee always is. It's roasted by the patented, Controlled Roasting process.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by this patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. Each berry receives an even roast. None is underdone, none overdone.

Such uniformity is not the case with coffee roasted by ordinary bulk methods. For big batches can't be exactly controlled. The coffee may be roasted a bit too much, or not enough. If either happens, you don't get the perfect flavor that Controlled Roasting never fails to achieve.

Hills Bros. Coffee is strictly fresh, because it's packed in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trademark on the can.

FAWCETT SUIT OUSTER ASKED

Government Attorneys Will Seek Dismissal of Tax Action

Notice of a motion of dismissal in the suit for $136,293 brought against W. H. Fawcett, head of Fawcett Publications, Inc., was filed in United States District Court by government attorneys Saturday.

The suit was started a week ago with the government and W. H. Taylor, 3215 Newton avenue N., acting as joint plaintiffs. Taylor charged that Fawcett filed a false and fraudulent claim against the government in 1925 for repayment of taxes and subsequently the government repaid him $15,327. Taylor also alleged that Fawcett filed an erroneous tax return in 1922 for the previous year.

Under federal law Taylor would get half of any judgment, the government receiving the other half, attorneys said.

L. L. Drill, United States district attorney, and Martin W. Goldsworthy, attorney for the internal revenue department, Saturday served notice they would ask dismissal of the case at a special term of court August 24. The motion will be made, they say, because the commissioner of internal revenue has not authorized or sanctioned the proceedings.

At the time the suit was filed, Chester W. Johnson, attorney for Mr. Fawcett, declared the action was the result of a grudge by former employees who did not have the facts in the case. —Minneapolis Journal.

LABOR DAY PROGRAM FEATURES STATE FAIR

Labor Day visitors to the Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Livestock Show, September 5 to 12, will be entertained by a bang-up program of new features from the time the gates swing open in the morning until the last flaring rocket releases its shower of multi-colored stars at night, according to Raymond A. Lee, secretary.

While there will be no pause in this entertainment program reaching to all quarters of the ground, several outstanding events will be on regular schedule; among them, a flashy motorcycle racing card at 10:30 a. m., the world famous stage and circus acts, coupled with the harness and running races at 1:30 p. m., the colorful night spectacle, "World on Parade," beginning at 7:30 p. m., and closing with a display of fireworks surprises; the Evening Horse Show in the Hippodrome, and others.

The motorcycle racing program is an innovation adopted by the Fair management this year to provide speed thrills for the large crowd always on hand Labor Day morning, and a large field of noted racers is being lined up by Clarence Hinck, in charge.

The afternoon harness events Labor Day will embrace a 2:07 pace for the Gopher State purse, 3-year-old pace, and 2:20 and 2:14 trots, to which will be added two running races of a mile and 70 yards and six and one-half furlongs, respectively. A special feature on the track will be an exhibition race between a riderless horse and an automobile.

Numerous circus and vaudeville acts gathered from many countries will lend interest to the afternoon program before the grandstand, and among the feature attractions will be the close-up performance of the autogiro or windmill type of airplanes, taking off, maneuvering and landing vertically immediately in front of the grandstand, and the thrilling exhibition by Cliff Aeros, the "human cannon ball," shot from the muzzle of a gigantic gun.

An old fashioned balloon ascension and parachute drop, the Ituri Pygmy Village transplanted from the Belgian Congo, the Boy Scout Camp and real Indian Village, the numerous shows of the Johnny J. Jones Exposition, and other attractions will contribute to the day's entertainment program.

"World on Parade" will be presented in five big scenes with many specialty acts on a 300-foot stage of scenic beauty as the featured night attraction before the grandstand.

FOUR CORNERS

The community extends its sympathy to the Racine family because of the death of Miss Laura Racine last Friday evening. Her funeral was largely attended. The funeral procession covered over one mile stretch of road. The large church at St. Mathias was filled, and Father Tertogen gave a wonderful sermon.

Quite a few relatives of the Racine family were here to attend the funeral, some from Wisconsin others from Little Falls and some from Pierz.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Buscher are staying a few days at the Racine home.

Mrs. W. F. Dunstan and two children Budd and Virginia from St. Paul are here for a few days visiting at the home of her brothers Ted and Mike Puetz and also other relatives and friends in Brainerd.

The community extends its sympathy to the Hanson family who lost their baby. The Hansons just moved in the community a few months ago. They are living on the R. C. Weber farm.

F. Glanvill of Brainerd is doing some painting and cleaning at the school house.

Brainerd visitors and on business this week were Mike Puetz, Gene Gordon, G. E. Burrows, Mr. Phillips and Mr. Elleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Howard and daughter Violet moved from the Puetz residence in what is known as the Kruse place on 131 street. The move makes it more convenient for Mr. Howard's work.

The farmers around this community are threshing these days. Threshing this year is a short order job. There are several machines and not much grain to thresh.

Oliver Browseau of Little Falls had Monday dinner at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carrease Browseau and family.

Mrs. Ted Howard and daughter visited at the Mike Puetz home one day this week.

FAWCETT SUIT OUSTER ASKED

Government Attorneys Will Seek Dismissal of Tax Action

Notice of a motion of dismissal in the suit for $136,293 brought against W. H. Fawcett, head of Fawcett Publications, Inc., was filed in United States District Court by government attorneys Saturday.

The suit was started a week ago with the government and W. H. Taylor, 3215 Newton avenue N., acting as joint plaintiffs. Taylor charged that Fawcett filed a false and fraudulent claim against the government in 1925 for repayment of taxes and subsequently the government repaid him $15,327. Taylor also alleged that Fawcett filed an erroneous tax return in 1922 for the previous year.

Under federal law Taylor would get half of any judgment, the government receiving the other half, attorneys said.

L. L. Drill, United States district attorney, and Martin W. Goldsworthy, attorney for the internal revenue department, Saturday served notice they would ask dismissal of the case at a special term of court August 24. The motion will be made, they say, because the commissioner of internal revenue has not authorized or sanctioned the proceedings.

At the time the suit was filed, Chester W. Johnson, attorney for Mr. Fawcett, declared the action was the result of a grudge by former employees who did not have the facts in the case. —Minneapolis Journal.

LABOR DAY PROGRAM FEATURES STATE FAIR

Labor Day visitors to the Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Livestock Show, September 5 to 12, will be entertained by a bang-up program of new features from the time the gates swing open in the morning until the last flaring rocket releases its shower of multi-colored stars at night, according to Raymond A. Lee, secretary.

While there will be no pause in this entertainment program reaching to all quarters of the ground, several outstanding events will be on regular schedule; among them, a flashy motorcycle racing card at 10:30 a. m., the world famous stage and circus acts, coupled with the harness and running races at 1:30 p. m., the colorful night spectacle, "World on Parade," beginning at 7:30 p. m., and closing with a display of fireworks surprises; the Evening Horse Show in the Hippodrome, and others.

The motorcycle racing program is an innovation adopted by the Fair management this year to provide speed thrills for the large crowd always on hand Labor Day morning, and a large field of noted racers is being lined up by Clarence Hinck, in charge.

The afternoon harness events Labor Day will embrace a 2:07 pace for the Gopher State purse, 3-year-old pace, and 2:20 and 2:14 trots, to which will be added two running races of a mile and 70 yards and six and one-half furlongs, respectively. A special feature on the track will be an exhibition race between a riderless horse and an automobile.

Numerous circus and vaudeville acts gathered from many countries will lend interest to the afternoon program before the grandstand, and among the feature attractions will be the close-up performance of the autogiro or windmill type of airplanes, taking off, maneuvering and landing vertically immediately in front of the grandstand, and the thrilling exhibition by Cliff Aeros, the "human cannon ball," shot from the muzzle of a gigantic gun.

An old fashioned balloon ascension and parachute drop, the Ituri Pygmy Village transplanted from the Belgian Congo, the Boy Scout Camp and real Indian Village, the numerous shows of the Johnny J. Jones Exposition, and other attractions will contribute to the day's entertainment program.

"World on Parade" will be presented in five big scenes with many specialty acts on a 300-foot stage of scenic beauty as the featured night attraction before the grandstand.

Murphy was named to the position to conduct county legal matters until the return of County Attorney Arthur J. Sullivan. Sullivan is reported rapidly improving at the Grand Rapids hospital from injuries sustained in an automobile accident August 8.

At the late afternoon meeting the commissioners also awarded contracts for the resurfacing of the so-called Lum Park road from Mill Avenue to the east end of the park. The Koppers Products Co. of Pittsburgh received the contract for $469.20 and the J. W. Craig Co. of Minneapolis the application for $184.

$5,000 FIRE HITS MAHLE FARM HOME

Men Using Well Water Powerless in Battling Flames in Two Story Dwelling

Men of the Minnesota Forestry Department and eight neighbors of Leonard Mahle, farmer, fought a raging fire without success Sunday that destroyed Mahle's home and contents with a damage of close to $5,000.

The men threw buckets of water from the well on the flames but could not extinguish them. The home was almost leveled. Only a few dining room chairs were saved.

The fire started at 10:30 a. m. from the kitchen chimney and rapidly spread to all parts of the two story frame dwelling. Dying embers were practically all that remained of the farm home at 12:30 p. m. The home is located three miles north of Brainerd on State Trunk Highway No. 19. The damage is partially covered by insurance.

FOUR CORNERS

The community extends its sympathy to the Racine family because of the death of Miss Laura Racine last Friday evening. Her funeral was largely attended. The funeral procession covered over one mile stretch of road. The large church at St. Mathias was filled, and Father Tertooegen gave a wonderful sermon.

Quite a few relatives of the Racine family were here to attend the funeral, some from Wisconsin others from Little Falls and some from Pier.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Buscher are staying a few days at the Racine home.

Mrs. W. F. Dunstan and two children Budd and Virginia from St. Paul are here for a few days visiting at the home for her brothers Ted and Mike Puetz and also other relatives and friends in Brainerd.

The community extends its sympathy to the Hanson family who lost their baby. The Hansons just moved in the community a few months ago. They are living on the R. C. Weber farm.

F. Glanvill of Brainerd is doing some painting and cleaning at the school house.

Brainerd visitors and on business this week were Mike Puetz, Gene Gorron, G. E. Burrows, Mr. Phillips and Mr. Elleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Howard and daughter Violet moved from the Puetz residence in what is known as the Kruse place on 13th street. The move makes it more convenient for Mr. Howard's work.

The farmers around this community are threshing these days. Threshing this year is a short order job. There are several machines and not much grain to thresh.

Olliver Brosseau of Little Falls had Monday dinner at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carrease Brosseau and family.

Mrs. Ted Howard and daughter visited at the Mike Puetz home one day this week.

Business is Not Bad

GUS LUDWIG, known as the prince of butter and egg men, a New Yorker who is also dubbed the Ambassador Extraordinary of Elksdom, is a guest at Breezy Point Lodge and while there he spoke of business conditions.

"Here is my slant on business," said Mr. Ludwig, "and I don't take anybody else's word for it. I am giving you conditions as I see them in my travels about the country. Business is not as bad as it is made out by some people. Our so-called depression is something that naturally follows any war, and it takes some countries 20 years to get over a war.

"One thing is true, there will not be any more crazy stock market speculation.

"To get business nowadays you must roll up your sleeves and go after it.

"Unemployment as I view it has been made a political issue. Congress should take a vacation for 10 years. Congress has no business to be in business.

"There are a lot of theoretical politicians in Congress and few business men. What the country needs is a few more Andrew Mellons. The secretary of the treasury knows what he is doing," said Mr. Ludwig.

For years Mr. Ludwig has bought butter and eggs in huge quantities, purchases running into the millions in Minnesota. Former Governor Preus recognized his merchandising abilities and what he was doing for Minnesota and made him an aide de camp on his staff.

Mr. Ludwig spends his winters in Hawaii and carries as a treasured possession a card made of tapa cloth certifying that he is a member of the Hawaii Comeback Club, duly signed and attested by the Hawaiian Tourist Bureau and recording the fact that he has visited the islands in 1925, 1926, 1928, 1929 and 1931.

It used to be the practice of the Honolulu Elks club to dip their flag when Ludwig steamed into the bay. Last time the salute was omitted because the flagpole had given away. Ludwig promptly put up a new 75 foot steel staff which was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies March 4.

Ludwig is a life member emeritus of Minneapolis Lodge No. 44 of the Elks and a life member of New York No. 1. He attends many Minnesota State meetings. He induced the new Grand Exalted Ruler Coen, Grand Secretary Masters and others to visit Breezy Point while on their way to Hibbing.

On Long Island Sound Mr. Ludwig has a magnificent estate where some years ago he entertained 40 Exalted Rulers of the Elks from states west of the Mississippi.

Teamsters and the Minimum Wage

TEAMSTERS and all hand work has been practically eliminated from competing for road work in Minnesota, says the Minneapolis Tribune. Motorized units have taken the place of horses and man power in grading and surfacing roads, a process of mechanization that has been going on for some time but that reached its peak this year. Contractors whose units have been equipped for the use of horses seek to place most of the blame for their elimination from the road construction field on the 45 cent an hour minimum wage established for all Minnesota road work by order of Governor Olson. They contend that the minimum wage and the 48 hour maximum work week makes it impossible to compete for work on the same basis as the contractor whose equipment is motorized and who does not have to employ so many men as they do.

Their protest is valid in as far as they contend that there should be a differentiation between the wage scale paid motorized and horse drawn units. They would seem to err, however, when they make the 45 cent minimum hourly wage the principal reason for their elimination in the competition. Motorized units had been gaining in number and effectiveness long before the minimum wage was set. The economies effected by the use of big machines had forced the change and the fixing of the wage is but an incident in the mechanization of another industry.

The teamsters could with reason contend that they should be exempted from paying the minimum or that a slightly lower hour scale be set for them, but they are not justified in making the political capital of the order that their recent protest addressed to the governor does. After citing the ruin the fixing of the minimum wage has forced upon them, the teamsters' protest attempts to align the farmer with their cause. They tell the governor he has "doubled the wages" that the farmer has to pay his hired help. This would not seem to correlate with the facts because the farmer is now able to engage more help than he can use at the lowest prices in years. The minimum wage for road work has had nothing to do with farm wages and is not solely responsible for the elimination of the horse from use in road construction.

State Label for Potatoes

MINNESOTA potato growers this season will market their top grades under a distinctive state label to be devised by the Department of Agriculture, Commissioner R. A. Trovatten has announced.

There will be no conflict between private labels and the state mark. The plan is an effort to increase the sale of Minnesota products and to establish a prestige for the state's products.

Mr. Trovatten states further that the markings, which will be the first scheme of that sort in the history of potato raising in the state, were announced after a conference with representative shippers from the Red River Valley and other centers.

Just as Minnesota top grade flour and butter are easily identified, so eventually top grade potatoes will also have their Minnesota identity clearly marked and will reflect honor and credit on the products of the state. Minnesota seed potatoes are known the world over and always command good prices.

Hazardous Occupations

AVOCATIONS at one time considered very sedate and secondary, have through changed conditions really become hazardous. Take, for instance, the country or city banker who nowadays faces death or injury or possible kidnapping in bank holdups.

And then the newspaper life. In the old days there was a lot of shooting. But now it is mostly argument and it takes real diplomacy to smooth out tangles.

The horse and buggy driver these days is in competition with motorized equipment. Every driver of a horse-drawn vehicle faces danger in traffic on a trunk road.

In the scale of accidents it has been found that home mishaps are among the greatest contributors to injuries. Chief among these is going down the cellar stairs and slipping.

Cuba Again Rent by Revolution

This map points out towns and provinces in Cuba where strife is reported heaviest in the revolutionary attempt to overthrow the government of President Gerardo Machado. Santa Clara Province, the birthplace of the President, and recently the hotbed of the revolt, has been visited by Machado in an effort to effect a truce with insurrectionists. Heavy fighting between rebels and Federal troops has been reported at Sierra Morena. Former President General Menocal, a leader in the revolt, has been reported in both Oriente Province and Pinar del Rio, at the other end of the island. Havana, the capital, is reported in a tense mood.

Dodging Rebel Bullets

The cameraman risked his life to take this photograph of Cuban Federal soldiers about to storm an abandoned furniture factory defended by rebel troops near Havana. The factory has been used by the insurrectionists to store arms for use in the uprising against President Machado. Shots were being exchanged even as this picture was taken. Two were killed and two wounded in taking the rebel stronghold.

These friends are the foods, the clothes, the furnishings—the many modern comforts you meet in the advertisements. You know them well . . . know how they look and what they can do. Naturally you like to read all the news about them, for even old friends are constantly changing, growing more interesting, offering new ideas.

Hoover Backs Wei

John B. Hollister (above), a pronounced "wet" and former associate of Robert and Charles B. Taft, sons of the late Chief Justice, is likely to secure the approval of the Ohio Republicans as Congressman, to take the place of the late Rep. Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House. Mr. Hollister, whose home is in Cincinnati, has been endorsed by President Hoover.

Aerial Starter

Pretty Mary Webb, cousin of Mrs. Rudy Vallee, has been named honorary starter of the Women's Air Derby, which takes off from Clover Field, Santa Monica, Calif., on August 23. She's shown here as she will appear when she flags the fair fliers on their way to the national air races at Cleveland.

Out to Score Again

William W. Roper, famous football coach at Princeton University for many years, is shown filing his application as a candidate for councilman in Philadelphia. Roper already has successfully backed the political line and scored two touchdowns which placed him in office two times. He's entering the third "quarter" determined to score again.

Feminine Realism

The only place where the fair sex is invariably hard-set in countenance and earnest in expression is the frontage of a milliner's shop.—Nineteenth Century and After.

The Better Plan

When I die, I should be ashamed to leave enough to build me a monument if there were a waiting friend above ground. I would enjoy the pleasure of what I give by giving it alive and seeing another enjoy it.—Pope.

Fanciful Names

In earlier centuries, observers thought that land animals had counterparts in the sea, and so they named seals "sea-wolves," fur seal "sea-bears," manatees "sea-cows."

Old Science Recorded

There is an Egyptian papyrus in the British museum which chronicles a magical science given by a certain medium before the king in the year 3700 B. C.

Teamsters and the Minimum Wage

TEAMSTERS and all hand work has been practically eliminated from competing for road work in Minnesota, says the Minneapolis Tribune. Motorized units have taken the place of horses and man power in grading and surfacing roads, a process of mechanization that has been going on for some time but that reached its peak this year. Contractors whose units have been equipped for the use of horses seek to place most of the blame for their elimination from the road construction field on the 45 cent an hour minimum wage established for all Minnesota road work by order of Governor Olson. They contend that the minimum wage and the 48 hour maximum work week makes it impossible to compete for work on the same basis as the contractor whose equipment is motorized and who does not have to employ so many men as they do.

Their protest is valid in as far as they contend that there should be a differentiation between the wage scale paid motorized and horse drawn units. They would seem to err, however, when they make the 45 cent minimum hourly wage the principal reason for their elimination in the competition. Motorized units had been gaining in number and effectiveness long before the minimum wage was set. The economies effected by the use of big machines had forced the change and the fixing of the wage is but an incident in the mechanization of another industry.

The teamsters could with reason contend that they should be exempted from paying the minimum or that a slightly lower hour scale be set for them, but they are not justified in making the political capital of the order that their recent protest addressed to the governor does. After citing the ruin the fixing of the minimum wage has forced upon them, the teamsters' protest attempts to align the farmer with their cause. They tell the governor he has "doubled the wages" that the farmer has to pay his hired help. This would not seem to correlate with the facts because the farmer is now able to engage more help than he can use at the lowest prices in years. The minimum wage for road work has had nothing to do with farm wages and is not solely responsible for the elimination of the horse from use in road construction.

State Label for Potatoes

MINNESOTA potato growers this season will market their top grades under a distinctive state label to be devised by the Department of Agriculture, Commissioner R. A. Trowatt has announced.

There will be no conflict between private labels and the state mark. The plan is an effort to increase the sale of Minnesota products and to establish a prestige for the state's products.

Mr. Trowatt states further that the markings, which will be the first scheme of that sort in the history of potato raising in the state, were announced after a conference with representative shippers from the Red River Valley and other centers.

Just as Minnesota top grade flour and butter are easily identified, so eventually top grade potatoes will also have their Minnesota identity clearly marked and will reflect honor and credit on the products of the state. Minnesota seed potatoes are known the world over and always command good prices.

Hazardous Occupations

AVOCATIONS at one time considered very sedate and secondary, have through changed conditions really become hazardous. Take, for instance, the country or city banker who nowadays faces death or injury or possible kidnapping in bank holdups.

And then the newspaper life. In the old days there was a lot of shooting. But now it is mostly argument and it takes real diplomacy to smooth out tangles.

The horse and buggy driver these days is in competition with motorized equipment. Every driver of a horse drawn vehicle faces danger in traffic on a trunk road.

In the scale of accidents it has been found that home mishaps are among the greatest contributors to injuries. Chief among these is going down the cellar stairs and slipping.

Cuba Again Rent by Revolution

This map points out towns and provinces in Cuba where strife is reported heaviest in the revolutionary attempt to overthrow the government of President Gerardo Machado. Santa Clara Province, the birthplace of the President, and recently the hotbed of the revolt, has been visited by Machado in an effort to effect a truce with insurrectionists. Heavy fighting between rebels and Federal troops has been reported at Sierra Morena. Former President General Menocal, a leader in the revolt, has been reported in both Oriente Province and Pinar del Rio, at the other end of the island. Havana, the capital, is reported in a tense mood.

Dodging Rebel Bullets

The cameraman risked his life to take this photograph of Cuban Federal soldiers about to storm an abandoned furniture factory defended by rebel troops near Havana. The factory has been used by the insurrectionists to store arms for use in the uprising against President Machado. Shots were being exchanged even as this picture was taken. Two were killed and two wounded in taking the rebel stronghold.

Hoover Backs Wet

John B. Hollister (above), a pronounced "wet" and former associate of Robert and Charles B. Taft, sons of the late Chief Justice, is likely to secure the approval of the Ohio Republicans as Congressman, to take the place of the late Rep. Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House. Mr. Hollister, whose home is in Cincinnati, has been endorsed by President Hoover.

Out to Score Again

William W. Roper, famous football coach at Princeton University for many years, is shown filing his application as a candidate for councilman in Philadelphia. Roper already has successfully bucked the political line and scored two touchdowns which placed him in office two times. He's entering the third "quarter" determined to score again.

Pretty Mary Webb, cousin of Mrs. Rudy Vallee, has been named honorary starter of the Women's Air Derby, which takes off from Clover Field, Santa Monica, Calif., on August 28. She's shown here as she will appear when she flags the fair fliers on their way to the national air races at Cleveland.

BABE RUTH'S BASEBALL PLAYING IS UP TO PAR

Paradoxical But True

Paradoxical as it may seem, John Heydler, president of the National Baseball League, is showing T. Philip Perkins, British amateur golf champion, how one should grip his club when performing a bit of magic (or hoped-for magic) on the green. Heydler took part in the Baseball Writers' annual golf tournament held recently at the Lido Country Club, Lido Beach, L. I. Perkins equalled the amateur record by shooting the course in 68.

Jimmy McLarnin and Billy Petrolle Fight at Yankee Stadium Thursday

New York, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Madison Square Garden's first outdoor promotion of the season—a 10-round bout between Jimmy McLarnin and Billy Petrolle at Yankee stadium Thursday—tops the boxing program for the week in the Metropolitan area.

The bout will be the third meeting of the two contestants. Petrolle staged one of the greatest ring upsets of recent years when he blasted McLarnin to defeat last December, with the coast welterweight taking a severe beating and barely escaping a knockout.

McLarnin partially evened the score by boxing his way to a decision in a return bout early this spring.

CERTAINLY IS EARNING HIS $80,000 PAY

FAIR, FAT AND NEARING FORTY. RUTH IS STILL "GOING GOOD"

APPEARS CERTAIN THAT HE WILL REGAIN HIS HOME RUN CROWN

By L. S. CAMERON (United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Aug. 17.—Babe Ruth may not obtain a renewal of his $80,000 contract with the New York Yankees next season, but if the Babe's salary is slashed it certainly will not be because he has failed to play $80,000 baseball.

Although Ruth has not received his usual quota of publicity this season he has been playing as well as at any time during his career. Fair, fat and nearing 40, the Babe still is the most dangerous batsman in organized baseball and it now appears that he not only will regain his home run crown, but that he also may win the American League batting championship.

Ruth is making a strong bid for double honors and today is leading both leagues in home runs with 33, and is only two points behind Al Simmons in the fight for league batting honors. Ruth hit his thirty-third homer yesterday as the Yankees defeated Detroit, 9 to 6, and now is only four homers behind the pace he set in establishing his all time record of 60 homers in 1927.

The victory failed to improve the Yankees' standing as the second place Washington Senators won a double-header from St. Louis, 5 to 3 and 8 to 6. Marberry pitched Washington to victory in the first game and strong relief pitching by Alvin Crowder gave the Senators the aftermath.

Philadelphia maintained its 11-game lead over Washington by defeating Cleveland, 6 to 4, with home runs by Cochrane and Cramer providing the winning margin.

Chicago and Boston divided a double-header. Thomas pitched six-hit ball to give Chicago the opener, 9 to 2, and Durham's five-hit performance gave Boston the nightcap, 5 to 1.

National League competition was featured by the tightening of the race for second place, with the third place Chicago Cubs winning a double-header from Boston, 7 to 1 and 5 to 1, to advance within one point of the New York Giants who split a double-header with the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals.

A two-hit masterpiece by Bill Walker gave New York a 7 to 1 triumph over St. Louis in the opening game of the "crucial" series but the Cards came back to win the second game, 3 to 2, on Frisch's homer.

Brooklyn defeated Cincinnati, 9 to 2 and 8 to 7, in the only other scheduled National League games. Glen Wright, returning to action after an absence of a month because of an injured ankle, led the Brooklyn attack with six hits in seven-times at bat.

TEXACO LOSES IN SEMI-FINALS PLAY

DROPS 7-5 GAME TO ST. CLOUD; ARO AND FOSTER CLOUT OUT HOMERS

The Texaco Oil Co. of Brainerd lost to Dinty Moore's ten in the semi-finals of the D-ball tourney at St. Cloud Sunday by the score of 7-5. Brainerd scored in the first and second innings but errors kept them from holding the strong St. Cloud team. Home runs by Aro and E. Foster and superb pitching by Benny Foster featured Brainerd's play.

The Texaco team lined up as follows: L. Rofidal, c.; B. Foster, p.; L. Hansen, 1b.; L. Mayer, ss.; J. Gabiou, 2b.; H. Goedderz, ss.; T. Franks, 3b.; E. Gabiou, rf.; E. Foster, cf.; L. Aro, lf.

LEGION BOXING COMMITTEE PROTESTS THEIR BOXING CARD

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—The American Legion boxing committee today protested a scheduled boxing card which was to have been presented tonight as part of the entertainment program of the Legion's annual convention.

Although members of the committee have sought to change the present state boxing laws to permit fights in Rochester and other smaller cities, today they sent a telegram to Governor Floyd B. Olson asking that he order the bouts stopped.

The committee said that a fight card in conjunction with the Legion convention would jeopardize the Legion's attempt to change the present law at the next session of the legislature.

St. Paul, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Vince A. Day, secretary to Gov. Floyd B. Olson, today wired the sheriff of Olmsted county to enforce the state boxing law in case the American Legion's proposed bouts were held tonight.

The telegram read: "Please investigate proposed boxing exhibition scheduled for tonight at Rochester. If present statutes are being violated, your office should take proper steps to enforce them."

'DIZZY' DEAN IS MAKING TRUE HIS PITCHING BOAST

Houston, Texas, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Jemore "Dizzy" Dean, the talkative pitcher who promised Houston fans he would win 30 games for them this season, had number 23 chalked up to his credit today and had within his reach the conclusive proof that he knew what he was talking about when he made his boast.

In shutting out Dallas, 4 to 0, in a Texas league game Sunday, "Dizzy," who is known as the "Art Shires of the south," struck out 13 batters, making him a total of 239 strikeouts for the season thus far.

HOTSY-TOTSY SETS SPEEDBOAT MARK

NOW HOLDS THE NEW ALL-TIME CLASS RECORD OF 53.59

MIL'S PER HOUR

Montauk, N. Y., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Hotzy-Totzy, a speed boat owned and driven by Victor Kleiarath of South Bend, Ind., and Port Washington, N. Y., today held a new all-time class record of 53.59 miles per hour.

Hotzy-Totzy, winner of four major trophies last year, established the record yesterday in successfully defending the gold cup championship, oldest American speed-boat event.

Only one other boat, Miss Philadelphia, owned by John Shibe and driven by Billy Freitag, was able to complete the three thirty-mile heats, with only three of the eight starters competing in the final heat.

Hotzy-Totzy won the first heat at 54.92 miles per hour after El Lagarto, owned by George Reiss of Lake George, N. Y., was forced out by a broken piston while leading by a mile with less than two miles to go.

NORTHEAST TRIMS ONAMIA, 5 TO 2

RASCH'S ARM GOES LAME IN 5TH. RELIEVED BY JARBOW; ONAMIA GETS 8 HITS

Northeast Brainerd added Onamia to the list of its vanquished Sunday in a baseball game here that ended 5 to 2.

E. Rasch was credited with the pitching victory. He held the Onamia nine to two tallies but retired with a lame arm in the fifth inning. Jarbow, stellar hurler, relieved him and held the visitors scoreless.

Loose fielding contributed largely to Onamia's defeat. The team cracked out eight hits to Brainerd's five.

MRS. MOODY GOES AFTER THE NATIONAL TITLE AGAIN!

THE climax of the women's tennis season in America will be reached this week, when the National Championship Tourney gets under way at Forest Hills. The Wightman Cup matches are over, and the British team, led by Betty Nuthall, will endeavor to halt the march of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody to another national title.

The fact that Mrs. Moody failed to show her best form in several Eastern tourneys late last month will undoubtedly serve to encourage those fair racket-wielders who hope to dethrone "Queen Helen." Certainly if she plays no better than she did against Mrs. Jessup at Southport, Mrs. Moody will en-

NEAR BEAR 5 CENTS PER GLASS, FREE LUNCH THROWN IN

Madison, Wis., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Beer at five cents a glass, with free lunch thrown in, brought the good old, pre-prohibition days back to Wisconsin today.

Bartenders blamed overproduction in a period of slow buying for the beer price war which forced the price down from 25 cents a glass to five cents.

The situation was not general, but threatened to become so.

With the five-cents-a-glass price adopted by most of the soft drink places in one Lake Michigan city, the bars competed on the basis of which could offer the most attractive free lunch, and signs appeared advertising "roast chicken," "roast duck" and "perch fry."

Joe Ryan, Brainerd Country Club star, won the second annual Pine Beach Golf tournament on the Pine Beach course at lower Gull lake Saturday afternoon by defeating Gil Carmichael, Minneapolis, chairman of the State Boxing Commission, in the 36-hole final, 8 and 7.

In the morning's play Ryan equalled par to gain a nine-hole advantage over his Minnesota rival, shooting a 73, a mark that has been bettered only once on the course and has been equalled only five or six times.

Ryan made his first nine in 38 and the second in 35, total 73.

Paradoxical But True

Paradoxical as it may seem, John Heydler, president of the National Baseball League, is showing T. Heydler took part in the Baseball Writers' annual golf tournament held recently at the Lido Country Club, Lido Beach, L. I. Perkins equalled the amateur record by shooting the course in 68.

Jimmy McLarnin and

Billy Petrolle Fight at Yankee Stadium Thursday

New York, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Madison Square Garden's first outdoor promotion of the season—a 10-round bout between Jimmy McLarnin and Billy Petrolle at Yankee stadium Thursday—tops the boxing program for the week in the Metropolitan area.

The bout will be the third meeting of the two contestants. Petrolle staged one of the greatest ring upsets of recent years when he blasted McLarnin to defeat last December, with the coast lightweight taking a severe beating and barely escaping a knockout. McLarnin partially evened the score by boxing his way to a decision in a return bout early this spring.

CERTAINLY IS EARNING HIS $80,000 PAY

FAIR, FAT AND NEARING FORTY.
RUTH IS STILL "GOING GOOD"

APPEARS CERTAIN THAT HE WILL REGAIN HIS HOME RUN
CROWN

By L. S. CAMERON

(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, Aug. 17.—Babe Ruth may not obtain a renewal of his $80,000 contract with the New York Yankees next season, but if the Babe's salary is slashed it certainly will not be because he has failed to play $80,000 baseball.

Although Ruth has not received his usual quota of publicity this season he has been playing as well as at any time during his career. Fair, fat and nearing 40, the Babe still is the most dangerous batsman in organized baseball and it now appears that he not only will regain his home run crown, but that he also may win the American League batting championship.

Ruth is making a strong bid for double honors and today is leading both leagues in home runs with 33, and is only two points behind Al Simmons in the fight for league batting honors. Ruth hit his thirty-third homer yesterday as the Yankees defeated Detroit, 9 to 6, and now is only four homers behind the pace he set in establishing his all time record of 60 homers in 1927.

The victory failed to improve the Yankees' standing as the second place Washington Senators won a double-header from St. Louis, 5 to 3 and 8 to 6. Marberry pitched Washington to victory in the first game and strong relief pitching by Alvin Crowder gave the Senators the aftermath.

Philadelphia maintained its 11-game lead over Washington by defeating Cleveland, 6 to 4, with home runs by Cochrane and Cramer providing the winning margin.

Chicago and Boston divided a double-header. Thomas pitched six-hit ball to give Chicago the opener, 9 to 2, and Durham's five-hit performance gave Boston the nightcap, 5 to 1.

National League competition was featured by the tightening of the race for second place, with the third place Chicago Cubs winning a double-header from Boston, 7 to 1 and 5 to 1, to advance within one point of the New York Giants who split a double-header with the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals.

A two-hit masterpiece by Bill Walker gave New York a 7 to 1 triumph over St. Louis in the opening game of the "crucial" series but the Cards came back to win the second game, 3 to 2, on Frisch's homer.

Brooklyn defeated Cincinnati, 9 to 2 and 8 to 7, in the only other scheduled National League games. Glen Wright, returning to action after an absence of a month because of an injured ankle, led the Brooklyn attack with six hits in seven-times at bat.

She Plays This Week

By HARDIN BURNLEY

THE climax of the women's tennis season in America will be reached this week, when the National Championship Tournament gets under way at Forest Hills. The Wightman Cup matches are over, and the British team, led by Betty Nuthall, will endeavor to halt the march of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody to another national title.

The fact that Mrs. Moody failed to show her best form in several Eastern tournaments late last month will undoubtedly serve to encourage those fair racket-wielders who hope to dethrone "Queen Helen." Certainly if she plays no better than she did against Mrs. Jessup at Seashore, Mrs. Moody will encounter plenty of trouble this week. Betty Nuthall, the defending champion, Helen Jacobs, Phyllis Mudford, Mrs. Harper and the other stars have all been "pointing" for this tournament. America's Helen will have to be at the top of her game if she expects to smash through the opposition in her old imperious way.

The English girls, especially, have their own ideas on the subject of Mrs. Moody. "The way to beat Helen is to make her run," is what they will tell you; but some precepts are easier to listen to than to follow.

Many British critics think even more of the diminutive Miss Phyllis Mudford than they do of Bounding Betty Nuthall. This small, quiet English girl is even thinner than Miss Sarah Palfrey, but her drives are like those of Little Bill Johnston of old—it is a mystery where the power comes from.

The eyes of tennis fans all over the world will be fixed on the courts at Forest Hills, for all the elements of sport drama will be present when Helen Wills Moody faces a formidable field in a test which should show conclusively whether she is slipping or not. Not even Mrs. Moody can go on forever, and this week's play will give us a definite line on her chances at Wimbledon next year.

NEAR BEAR 5 CENTS PER GLASS, FREE LUNCH THROWN IN

Madison, Wis., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Beer at five cents a glass, with free lunch thrown in, brought the good old, pre-prohibition days back to Wisconsin today.

Barkeepers blamed overproduction in a period of slow buying for the beer price war which forced the price down from 25 cents a glass to five cents.

The situation was not general, but threatened to become so.

With the five-cent-a-glass price adopted by most of the soft drink places in one Lake Michigan city, the bars competed on the basis of which could offer the most attractive free lunch, and signs appeared advertising "roast chicken," "roast duck" and "perch fry."

RESOLUTION IN LEGION CONVENTION ASKS ANDERSON AS CONSERVATION COMMISSIONER

REMOVAL OF STONEBERG EXPECTED TO BE ANOTHER CENTER OF ATTACK

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—The first step in a battle centering on the farmer-labor state administration was taken today when the state convention of the American Legion considered a resolution to ask the appointment of Parker Anderson, St. Paul, as conservation commissioner.

With city streets gaily decorated and preliminary events disposed of, the annual state convention began today with the first regular business meeting.

Anderson is a war veteran and the resolution for his appointment is the first gun in a loud battle in which the Legion is seeking a strict enforcement of the soldiers preference law. The conservation board members were understood to be considering four other candidates besides Anderson and have not yet made their choice although they held several sessions.

The removal of F. W. Stoneberg, North Branch, as chief game warden of his district, is expected to be another center of attack on the state administration. Stoneberg committed suicide a few days later. Commissioner W. D. Stewart of the state game and fish department said he had written Stoneberg that he would be reinstated and that his removal was a mistake. Stoneberg's family, however, intimated that the retired warden had not received this information.

Stoneberg was a war veteran and his replacement was in violation of the soldiers' preference law. A. B. Kaplan, department commander, Duluth, said. He further said that the department had records of his war service in its files and that Stoneberg should not have been replaced by a man not a war veteran.

Whether the Legion would take action on prohibition enforcement and possible repeal of the Volstead act was understood to disturb leaders because of the national body's president. The national officials discouraged any action on controversial politics but two resolutions were ready for presentation. A parliamentary battle was in prospect over the department's authority to enter such a controversy.

Revision of the Legion junior baseball tournament rules to permit parochial high school students to compete was under consideration. Now only students in schools in the particular area from which the teams are entered are allowed to play. Many parochial students come from long distances from their schools, it was pointed out.

Frank Ring, St. Paul, was elected head of the state branch of the 40 and 8 to succeed William T. Kroll, Minneapolis; L. S. Miller, Crookston, was chosen grand chef de train, to succeed Ervin H. Wolfe, Sauk Centre; Curt Anderson, Hutchinson, sous grand chef de train, to succeed L. S. Miller, Crookston; William Furlong, Hibbing, sous grand chef de train, to succeed O. O. Kittelson, St. James; L. A. Brandeburg, St. Paul, re-elected grand commissaire; Howard Clark, Winona, grand conductor, to succeed Curt Anderson, Hutchinson; Dr. G. R. Anderson, Cambridge, grand amonier, to succeed the Rev. Frank Errington, Moorhead; J. G. Alexander, Minneapolis, grand garde de la porte, to succeed Earl Toye, Winona; E. R. Wolfe, Winona, cheminot national, to succeed Dr. H. W. Schmidt, Hibbing; and Lee Testin, Albert Lea, re-elected alternate cheminot national.

Among the grand cheminot elected by districts were: first, Dr. P. Joyce, Rochester; second, Don Week, Slayton; third, Harry Bemienheimer, Hutchinson; fourth, J. P. Mullaney, St. Paul; fifth, John Sturgeon, Minneapolis; eighth, Royal Huber, Chisholm; ninth, Ralph Lyeon, Crookston, and tenth, Carroll Hallstrom, Brahm. Sixth and seventh district officials to be elected later.

HUBERT T. PARSON HAS AN ENCOURAGING REPORT OF CONDITIONS IN EUROPE

New York, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—An optimistic view of general business conditions was expressed today by Hubert T. Parson, president of F. W. Woolworth and Company, on his arrival on the United States liner Leviathan.

Parson, returning from two months in France, said his stores in Europe showed continual improvement, reflecting the business sentiment of most Europeans.

"While there is still much pessimism among the bankers and business leaders abroad," Parson said, "the rank and file of the people are convinced things have taken a turn for the better."

The Woolworth stores in England showed an increase to June 1 over 1930 of 10.8 per cent, and to Aug. 1 of 12.37 per cent. The German stores, he said, showed an increase of 26.5 per cent to June 1 and 35 per cent to Aug. 1. The entire concern, both here and abroad, showed a considerable increase in business by the end of the year.

"The most encouraging thing about business abroad," Parson declared, "was the rush to buy. On a Saturday the crush in the stores would be so great that it was impossible to force one's way into some of the shops."

Record Justice for Torch Slayers

Justice set an enviable record in Ann Arbor, Mich., when, six hours after three men had confessed the atrocious crime of attacking and killing four high school students before burning their bodies in a "lovers' lane" near Ypsilanti, Mich., sentence was passed and the trio had been started to prison to serve life terms. Left to right above are Frank Oliver, Fred Smith and Nathan Blackstone, the three self-confessed slayers of the youthful couple, as they fearfully awaited sentence in Ann Arbor court. They got the maximum penalty, there being no capital punishment in Michigan. Lower photo shows incensed throngs milling about the courthouse at Ann Arbor. The slayers were saved from lynching by the mob only through the efforts of National Guardsmen and extra guards.

PRES. HOOVER TO WRESTLE WITH UNEMPLOYMENT

COUNTRY ENTITLED TO MORE ACTION AND LESS THEORIES, SAY DEMOCRATS

"IF PRESIDENT HAS CONCRETE PLAN, COUNTRY SHOULD KNOW IT," SAYS SHOUSE

Washington, Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—President Hoover cut short his week-end at Camp Rapidan to resume work today on his program for meeting the winter unemployment problem.

The president had planned to enjoy the mountain coolness until Tuesday, but he expected to be back at the White House by noon.

The president arrived from Camp Rapidan at 11:25 A. M. and went immediately to his desk.

Meanwhile the democratic national committee, through its executive chairman, J. P. Morgan, called on Mr. Hoover to announce his plan forthwith.

"What the country is entitled to from the president is more positive action and less theoretical investigation," Shouse said. "If the president has any concrete plan, the country has a right to know what it is."

Word at the White House is that Mr. Hoover expects to announce his program about September 1. The president has been studying the employment situation for two weeks, to the exclusion of nearly all other business.

One of Mr. Hoover's problems is to determine the probable extent of relief work which will be necessary this winter. Shouse expressed wonder that the government does not have accurate statistics on unemployment and said that in any event the chief concern should be to prepare to meet a maximum amount of distress.

The department of labor issued a monthly report showing continued slight declines in employment and payrolls in 46,000 establishments from which it receives data. Employment declined two per cent in July and payroll totals 4.8 per cent.

Increased employment was reported in five of 15 major industrial groups—crude oil production, electric railroad operation, hotels, canning and laundries.

Manufacturing, the most important group, showed a decrease of 2.5 per cent in employment. Pay-roll totals in manufacturing stood at 70.4 at the end of July, compared with 81.6 a year ago.

CUBAN REVOLT NEARLY CRUSHED

SANTA CLARA PROVINCE ONLY POINT WHERE DISTURBANCE STILL RIFE

By K. D. GILMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Havana, Cuba., Aug. 17.—(U.P.)—Rebellion in Cuba has been crushed everywhere save in Santa Clara province, army headquarters announced today.

The announcement was based on a cross-section patrol of the entire island by cavalry troops.

Gen. Alberto Herrera, chief of staff, said that federal forces would take a decisive stand in the Sierra Morena section of Santa Clara province today and expected to "clean up" that situation shortly.

He pointed out that the Santa Clara skirmishing is difficult to combat, as it consists of a series of running fights, with the rebels taking advantage of protection from mountains.

Private reports from the interior generally confirmed the Herrera statement. Travelers said they had seen no fighting and that the people have returned to their homes. Many did not surrender their arms.

Last night marked the end of reports on interior fighting from the information bureau recently maintained at the palace, it was announced.

President Gerardo Machado remained at the Santa Clara provisional palace. Many rebels surrendered to him personally, receiving his pardon. It was reported without confirmation that the president might tour the island before returning.

AMERICAN LEGION IS ASSAILED BY CARNEGIE BODY

FOUNDATION CHARGES LEGION WITH BEING SUBSIDY-SEEKING GROUP OF LOBBYISTS

EXEMPTION OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL FROM TAXATION IS ALSO ATTACKED

New York, Aug. 17.—The American Legion is assailed as a subsidy-seeking group of lobbyists, and exemption of college football from taxation is attacked today by the Carnegie Foundation.

Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, retiring president, in the annual report of the Foundation, published today, said:

"The claim that the country owes a subsidy to every citizen who has served sixty or ninety days in its military service is an impudent and unwarranted claim. To admit it would strike at the very roots of patriotism. The moment a citizen calls on the government for a subsidy, whether in the form of bonus or old-age pension, for a service that has neither affected unfavorably his health nor his ability to earn a living, he abandons his position as a patriot."

Dr. Pritchett accused leaders of the Legion of imitating the G. A. R. in raiding the United States treasury and warned that giving every former soldier a bonus would place a staggering and intolerable burden on the nation.

"The commercializing of football and its transformation from a game into a public show for money raises an interesting question concerning taxation," Dr. Pritchett said. He suggested that colleges and universities which have tremendous incomes from football "carry their share of the burden of government."

"An agency that takes in $400,000 at a single show," he said, "is in no position to ask for the exemption of this money earned from taxation. Why should a university ask for exemption from duties common to all other agencies of the social order?"

He cited specifically the case of Harvard University which derived $1,250,000 of its $12,000,000 income last year from athletics, almost wholly from football.

FORT RIPLEY

A highway accident occurred which did considerable damage to the car occupied by Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Keith and Miss Velma Bright of Marshall, Minn., homeward bound from Duluth. The other car was also damaged slightly and contained five single Minneapolis girls who would not reveal their names at the suggestion of Miss Bright so their parents might not be worried about them. None of the occupants was even scratched much to their surprise. The five girls were Brainerd bound on their vacation and also carried considerable luggage but the amusing part was the wreckage which was a hundred feet along the highway consisted of food starting with canned goods, fresh vegetables and fruits and ended with ham sandwiches which belonged to the Minneapolis girls. Mr. Keith being a gentleman offered anything within his power to recompense the girls for their loss.

The Woolworth stores in England showed an increase to June 1 over 1930 of 10.8 per cent, and to Aug. 1 of 12.37 per cent. The German stores, he said, showed an increase of 26.5 per cent to June 1 and 35 per cent to Aug. 1. The entire concern, both here and abroad, showed a considerable increase in business by the end of the year.

"The most encouraging thing about business abroad," Parson declared, "was the rush to buy. On a Saturday the crush in the stores would be so great that it was impossible to force one's way into some of the shops."

Record Justice for Torch Slayers

Justice set an enviable record in Ann Arbor, Mich., when, six hours after three men had confessed the atrocious crime of attacking and killing four high school students before burning their bodies in a "lovers' lane" near Ypsilanti, Mich., sentence was passed and the trio had been started to prison to serve life terms. Left to right above are Frank Oliver, Fred Smith and Nathan Blackstone, the three self-confessed slayers of the youth couple, as they fearfully awaited sentence in Ann Arbor court. They got the maximum penalty, there being no capital punishment in Michigan. Lower photo shows incensed throngs milling about the courthouse at Ann Arbor. The slayers were saved from lynching by the mob only through the efforts of National Guardsmen and extra guards.

ONE WELCOME AIR TOURIST

PRES. HOOVER TO WRESTLE WITH UNEMPLOYMENT

COUNTRY ENTITLED TO MORE ACTION AND LESS THEORIES, SAY DEMOCRATS

"IF PRESIDENT HAS CONCRETE PLAN, COUNTRY SHOULD KNOW IT," SAYS SHOUSE

Washington, Aug. 17.—(UP)—President Hoover cut short his week-end at Camp Rapidan to resume work today on his program for meeting the winter unemployment problem.

The president had planned to enjoy the mountain coolness until Tuesday, but he expected to be back at the White House by noon.

The president arrived from Camp Rapidan at 11:25 A. M. and went immediately to his desk.

Meanwhile the democratic national committee, through its executive chairman, J. P. Morgan, called on Mr. Hoover to announce his plan forthwith.

"What the country is entitled to from the president is more positive action and less theoretical investigation," Shouse said. "If the president has any concrete plan, the country has a right to know what it is."

Word at the White House is that Mr. Hoover expects to announce his program about September 1. The president has been studying the employment situation for two weeks, to the exclusion of nearly all other business.

One of Mr. Hoover's problems is to determine the probable extent of relief work which will be necessary this winter. Shouse expressed wonder that the government does not have accurate statistics on unemployment and said that in any event the chief concern should be to prepare to meet a maximum amount of distress.

The department of labor issued a monthly report showing continued slight declines in employment and payrolls in 46,000 establishments from which it receives data. Employment declined two per cent in July and payroll totals 4.8 per cent.

Increased employment was reported in five of 15 major industrial groups—crude oil production, electric railroad operation, hotels, canning and laundries.

Manufacturing, the most important group, showed a decrease of 2.5 per cent in employment. Payroll totals in manufacturing stood at 70.4 at the end of July, compared with 81.6 a year ago.

On Firing Line

Carlos Mendieta (above), noted Cuban insurrectionist, is reported on the firing line in battle against Federal troops in Cuba while engaged in trying to overthrow the regime of President Machado. CUBAN REVOLT NEARLY CRUSHED

SANTA CLARA PROVINCE ONLY POINT WHERE DISTURBANCE STILL RIFE

By K. D. GILMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Rebellion in Cuba has been crushed everywhere save in Santa Clara province, army headquarters announced today.

The announcement was based on a cross-section patrol of the entire island by cavalry troops.

Gen. Alberto Herrera, chief of staff, said that federal forces would take a decisive stand in the Sierra Morena section of Santa Clara province today and expected to "clean up" that situation shortly.

He pointed out that the Santa Clara skirmishing is difficult to combat, as it consists of a series of running fights, with the rebels taking advantage of protection from mountains.

Private reports from the interior generally confirmed the Herrera statement. Travelers said they had seen no fighting and that the people have returned to their homes. Many did not surrender their arms.

Last night marked the end of reports on interior fighting from the information bureau recently maintained at the palace, it was announced.

President Gerardo Machado remained at the Santa Clara provisional palace. Many rebels surrendered to him personally, receiving his pardon. It was reported without confirmation that the president might tour the island before returning.

Fact About Cremation

The public health service says that it is not true that in cremation the heart remains unburned. The heart usually burns last, due to the fact that it is the best protected organ in the body. This, of course, depends upon how the heat is applied.

AMERICAN LEGION IS ASSAILED BY CARNEGIE BODY

FOUNDATION CHARGES LEGION WITH BEING SUBSIDY-SEEKING GROUP OF LOBBYISTS

EXEMPTION OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL FROM TAXATION IS ALSO ATTACKED

New York, Aug. 17.—The American Legion is assailed as a subsidy-seeking group of lobbyists, and exemption of college football from taxation is attacked today by the Carnegie Foundation.

Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, retiring president, in the annual report of the Foundation, published today, said:

"The claim that the country owes a subsidy to every citizen who has served sixty or ninety days in its military service is an impudent and unwarranted claim. To admit it would strike at the very roots of patriotism. The moment a citizen calls on the government for a subsidy, whether in the form of bonus or old-age pension, for a service that has neither affected unfavorably his health nor his ability to earn a living, he abandons his position as a patriot."

Dr. Pritchett accused leaders of the Legion of imitating the G. A. R. in raiding the United States treasury and warned that giving every former soldier a bonus would place a staggering and intolerable burden on the nation.

"The commercializing of football and its transformation from a game into a public show for money raises an interesting question concerning taxation," Dr. Pritchett said. He suggested that colleges and universities which have tremendous incomes from football "carry their share of the burden of government."

"An agency that takes in $400,000 at a single show," he said, "is in no position to ask for the exemption of this money earned from taxation. Why should a university ask for exemption from duties common to all other agencies of the social order?"

He cited specifically the case of Harvard University which derived $1,250,000 of its $12,000,000 income last year from athletics, almost wholly from football.

FORT RIPLEY

A highway accident occurred which did considerable damage to the car occupied by Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Keith and Miss Velma Bright of Marshall, Minn., homeward bound from Duluth.

The other car was also damaged slightly and contained five single Minneapolis girls who would not reveal their names at the suggestion of Miss Bright so their parents might not be worried about them. None of the occupants was even scratched much to their surprise. The five girls were Brainerd bound on their vacation and also carried considerable luggage but the amusing part was the wreckage which was a hundred feet along the highway consisted of food starting with canned goods, fresh vegetables and fruits and ended with ham sandwiches which belonged to the Minneapolis girls. Mr. Keith being a gentleman offered anything within his power to recompense the girls for their loss.

Charlie Stroming's threshing rig is in full swing now threshing at his farm first which averaged 35 bushels of oats to the acre. This is believed a good crop considering the drought and grasshopper menace.

The dam on Fred Morissette's trout fish hatchery was undermined by a muskrat and considerable damage was done by the water running out. After much hard work it was repaired.

Miss Ida Heidman, a nurse from Little Falls is spending the week end at the home of Dorothy Stroming.

Ned and Joe Kunkel have some relatives from Iowa visiting them at their farm home.

CASE SET FOR AUGUST 25

Ed. Bondy Arrested After Found
Asleep in His Car Without Lights on Highway

Two fines of $100 and costs were imposed on drivers of vehicles and a third driver plead not guilty to careless driving and his case was continued.

Edward Bondy pleaded guilty to careless driving on State Trunk Highway No. 19 four miles north of Brainerd.

Officer James Arone of the Minnesota Highway Patrol who made the arrest said that he came upon Bondy asleep in his car without lights on the road.

Arone said he had considerable difficulty in awaking Bondy and that when he started to drive again he swerved from one side of the road to the other.

The officer said he could smell liquor on the breath of the driver.

Bondy stated that he was not intoxicated, that he had a drink of beer and that the presence of fog made it difficult for him to see the road clearly. He paid his fine.

Rollie Crow was also arrested by Officer Arone. Crow pleaded not guilty to the charge of careless driving and his case was continued to August 25. He was arrested on State Trunk Highway No. 2 Sunday.

James Hyett, West Brainerd, pleaded guilty to driving his car early today on Front street while under the influence of liquor. Officer Erick Graff made the complaint. Hyett was unable to pay his fine. He said he was a caddy at the Breezy Point golf course and the car he was driving was his father's.

YOUTH STEALS CLUB IN POLICE OFFICE

Sande Finds "Billy" Missing, Picks up
Youthful Sleeper Who Is Fined for Prank

The theft of a Brainerd policeman's billy club was admitted by Ronald Wolke, Minneapolis youth, in municipal court this morning.

Ronald, 18, was one of a group of three boy sleepers in the city jail Saturday night. As the boys left Sunday morning Ronald in passing the police desk saw an opportunity for a prank. When Officer H. B. Sande was not looking he slipped the policeman's club in his pocket and walked out.

Sande found the youths on the street and searched them. No billy club was found. The policeman scoured the headquarters but could not find the club. He saw the boys on the street again and told them to come to headquarters with him. As they mounted the steps of the city hall, Wolke said he was the only one to take as he had the club. He then produced the club from his clothing.

Wolke told Judge J. H. Warner he had been caddy at Pine Beach golf course. He was fined $10.

URGES CAUTION IN USE OF CAMPFIRE

Ranger Comes Upon Fire Left Unattended; Urges Resort Owner to Cooperate

An example of the thoughtlessness and carelessness of some of the fishermen on northern lakes was found yesterday on the extreme point of the narrow neck of land which lies between Big Trout and Whitefish Lakes. A party of fishermen had landed on the point, cleaned their fish throwing the offal on the beach at the edge of the water, and after building a camp fire and preparing a meal, had left the camp fire unattended. Ranger E. H. Rhodes, discovered the unattended fire and extinguished it just as it had begun to spread.

Lake dwellers and resort owners, who rent out boats, should not only be careful about leaving unattended fires, but should caution those to whom they rent boats in regard to the hazard of leaving their fires unattended. Also when cleaning fish on public camp grounds or along lake shores, a person should see that all offal from the cleaning of fish is buried and the camp site left as clean as found, so that it would be inviting to other vacationers, Mr. Rhodes said.

"The Friendliest Store In Town"

"MAKE-BELIEVE" by FAITH BALDWIN

Copyright, 1930, by Faith Baldwin

Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Thrown upon her own resources, Mary Lou Thurston, beautiful and vivacious orphan, applies for a position as companion to a semi-invalid in the palatial home of Mrs. Lorrimer at Westmill, Connecticut. Mrs. Lorrimer explains the ad should have read "male" as the invalid is her son, Travers, shell-shocked in the war. As Mary Lou is about to leave, Travers enters. He seizes her in his arms, calling her "Delight" and "wife." Then he faints when Mary Lou fails to respond to his caresses. Mrs. Lorrimer persuades Mary Lou to assume the role of Delight Harford, whom Travers claims he married in England, in order to help him regain his health. Mary Lou confides in her friend, Larry Mitchell, young newspaper reporter. Dr. Mathews tells Travers that as Delight was very young at the time of their marriage and since believed him dead, it is only fair to begin all over with friendship. Mrs. Lorrimer acquiesces Mary Lou with the details regarding Delight and her vain search for the girl. The following morning, Mary Lou is all set for her new role. Travers comes upon her at the dog kennels.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"Oh, how you startled me!" were the first words she spoke to him.

Lorrimer came closer to her and, somehow, managed a smile. "I didn't mean to," he said. "I hope I'm all done with startling you. You must forgive me, for yesterday, I—"

"Please," said Mary Lou, low, "it was as much my fault as yours."

Her voice was not as he remembered all these years. It was lower, deeper, a little, enchantingly husky. But memory plays us strange tricks and time had passed. He leaned against the high fencing of the kennels and whipped his slender walking stick across the short grass.

The Play Begins

"We won't talk about it now," he said. "I just want you to know that I do understand. I understand your reticence and the complete shock it all must have been to you. If—if you had thought of me at all of late years it was not as I appeared to you, suddenly. Suppose we forgot that, for a time, I—make no claim on you, Delight. I ask nothing of you but your confidence and, if you can give it to me, your friendship."

She seemed so little, suddenly, so entirely helpless, that he felt, amazingly, a curious sense of tender protectiveness, of power, almost. Unconsciously, his stooped shoulders straightened and for a moment he looked like a man who voluntarily assumes a task, who sets himself a goal.

She was smaller than he remembered her, prettier even, if that were possible. He didn't question her age. He knew, of course, that she was nearly of an age with himself, must be. But it didn't occur to him as unusual that time seemed to have stood still for her, as far as appearances went. But he did find, with a shock of astonishment, that she was somehow different, and now that he saw her again, divorced from the cataclysmic amazement of yesterday, really a stranger, some one other than the girl of his obstinate, sick memory. Somehow it made it both harder and easier.

He held out his hand. "Friends—Delight?" he asked ner, and the smile was no longer managed but authentic. His eyes shone with excitement, with anxiety, and there was color in the sallow, lean cheeks.

Mary Lou put her hand into his. The curtain was up, the prologue finished, the play itself was on.

And— "Friends," she promised gravely. "Say 'Lorry,'" he begged her, still holding that warm, vibrant little hand in his own. "You—used to!"

Mary Lou thanked her lucky stars for this piece of information. And her realization of her good fortune brought stars to her eyes and curves to her red mouth.

"Lorry—" she said, obediently.

There was no withdrawal possible now. She had made her bargain and sealed it with a hand-clasp.

Cause to Wonder

Mary Lou's battered trunk, suitcase and box arrived safely at "Westwood House" forwarded by the faithful Larry, from whom she received a lengthy and wild letter, typed on yellow copy paper, demanding, cajoling, warning and pleading. Did she realize what she was getting into? demanded Larry, frantically. Would she never grow up? Of all the crazy, mad, insane and incredible schemes! However, count on him to stand by her, and, if necessary, to get her out of this mess into which, idiotically, she appeared to have gotten herself. For himself, he could not believe a word of her explanation—that is, not with a sane and intelligent mind. And when could he come out and see for himself just what sort of monkey-business this appeared to be?

But Mary Lou wasn't quite ready to face Larry yet. She wrote soothingly, promising to keep in touch with him. She wrote, also, to her uncle and Clara. It would be many weeks before the letters would reach them and months before she would have their answer. She realized, setting down the facts in careful potbooks, on "Westwood" paper, that it would all seem as unreal as a dream to the Sandersons. Well, it seemed unreal to her, she thought.

Yet her role was not hard to play, she found, as the days slipped by and gray snow clouds began to veil the horizon and there was a breath of winter, frosty and menacing, in the air. For Lorrimer made it as easy for her as possible, trying to keep his word to his mother and Doctor Mathews. It would have been an act of inhuman self-control on his part not to refer to what he thought was their mutual past.

That morning on which he had gone out to look for her and had found her at the kennels had passed quickly enough. He'd given her the best police puppy, "Konig," for her own, and had watched, with a hurting sort of pleasure in her happiness, her gentle, diplomatic overtures of friendship toward the beautiful, boisterous animal. Later, with Konig at his new owner's heels, they had gone back to the house, and Lorrimer had deliberately suffered the racing and barking and general rowdiness of the pup, not wishing to spoil the girl's pleasure in her new possession, and had found, to his own amazement, that once he made up his mind that he could not permit his nerves to rule him, he almost forgot the noisy accompaniment to their walk.

He was determined not to refer to the past in the deeply intimate personal sense. But he spoke, quite naturally, of the elapsed years and the hideous doubts which had consumed him. He asked, as casually as he could manage, what had happened to the cousins he remembered so well, and Mary Lou, thanking her lucky stars for the presence of the pup, managed, in her turn, to answer, her face averted, and interrupting herself now and then with commands or comments to Konig.

She had rehearsed her story time and time again. And now that she was forced to give a performance to this particularly important audience, she found herself doing it creditably. She told him that she had moved away from London, told him of the "cousins" and of her permanent estrangement from her "mother." All this he accepted as perfectly reasonable. It all hung together. And as he tacitly understood that she believed him dead, and was determined not to speak of that particular phase of the situation, a stranger, overhearing their conversation, would have believed them old friends, separated by circumstances and reunited by chance.

"So," said Mary Lou, on a long breath of relief, "when I couldn't find anything to do I came over here, hoping to find some relatives of my—my father's. I had an opportunity to sail with an elderly American woman, a Mrs. Duncan, who paid my passage over. And I hadn't been here very long before I saw your mother's name in the paper and came out to see her on a chance that it might be—"

She stopped and flushed. She had been speaking gravely, a little breathlessly. It wasn't hard to think herself into the part; she had dreamed so long, had for so many years dramatized herself as the heroine of every book she read and every play she saw. And her sobriety lent a semblance of truth to her halting explanation.

"And it was," commented Lorrimer as soberly as she. "A very wonderful chance," he added, "for me."

Really Strangers

His deep, toneless voice took on faint vibrancy and color. Mary Lou, the flush deepening, whistled to Konig, who was off at a distance, gaily chasing a harmless and chattering squirrel up a tree. It was going to be difficult to ignore the personal equation, after all!

They had just passed the stables. Mary Lou cried out, in snatching at any conversational straw: "I called on your horses this morning. What beauties they are! I wish," she said truly and wistfully, "that I knew how to ride."

"Don't you?" He bent his tall head and looked at her in some astonishment, and realized, with a pang of amazement, that he knew very little about her, after all. For all his dreaming and despair, his memories of gay, gallant loving, defiantly snatched from time in the very face of death, his actual knowledge of her was so incomplete. Yet he had remembered trivial, small things, and, because he remembered, suddenly asked, half whimsically:

"Do you still adore artichokes, Delight?"

She started a little. It was to be some time before she could become accustomed to that exotic name.

Well, she did like them! "Of course," said Mary Lou and smiled. "However did you remember?"

(To Be Continued Monday.)

GUINEA PIG AID TO SCIENTISTS

Of Especial Interest to Live Stock Breeders.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) With Service.

It may be possible some day for the live stock producer to breed his animals in such a way as to speed up the growth of their offspring. Scientists of the United States Department of Agriculture have accomplished this with guinea pigs and believe the same principles may apply to live stock.

Dr. Hugh C. McPhee, geneticist of the bureau of animal industry, and his associates observed that inbreeding and cross-breeding of guinea pigs exerted a marked influence on the rapidity or slowness of the offspring's growth. They are starting new researches to test these scientific principles of inheritance on live stock, especially swine, sheep, and cattle.

If the live stock breeder could influence the rate of growth of his young farm animals as has been done with guinea pigs he would have control of an important element in the cost of production. It is generally accepted that rapid growth is economical growth.

The department scientists obtained various results by cross breeding the members of unrelated families of guinea pigs, each of which had been thoroughly inbred. When both parents were members of lightweight families the offspring grew faster and larger than either parent at the same age. When one parent was a lightweight and the other a heavyweight the offspring grew more nearly like the heavyweight parent, gaining especially fast in case the mother was the heavyweight. The investigators gained no advantage of growth by crossing two heavyweight families, but did improve the fertility of the offspring.

The heaviest family of inbred guinea pigs outgrew all others during their first four months.

Three Cattle Problems on Feeding Discussed

Three questions of great importance to cattle feeders are discussed in a new bulletin just issued by the Minnesota agricultural experiment station. These questions involve the grinding of shelled corn, barley and alfalfa hay for fattening cattle, the feeding of cane molasses to fattening cattle, and the value of pentland hay as roughage for cattle.

Among the principal conclusions are the following:

When fattening cattle are being fed a ration of shelled corn and alfalfa hay, both feeds of fair quality, and hogs are following the cattle, no worthwhile advantage is to be gained by grinding either the corn or the alfalfa or by grinding both and mixing before feeding.

When a suitable ration of palatable feeds is being fed to fattening cattle, under conditions prevailing in Minnesota, the use of either small or large amounts of molasses in the ration has little effect upon the daily rate of gain and tends to lower the margin of profit over feed cost rather than to raise it.

Timothy or timothy and alsike clover mixed hay grown on properly fertilized peat soil will be palatable to cattle and show a feeding value equal or superior to similar hay grown on normal upland soil.

Copies of the bulletin may be had free by writing the Mailing Room, University Farm, St. Paul, and requesting Bulletin 274.

Live Stock Notes

Sheep require so little labor that they do not interfere with dairy work.

Do not work a slow horse or mule and a fast one together—match your teams for better work.

If we are to make a success of live stock farming, we must grow an abundance of feed.

More than 35 per cent of the pigs farrowed in the United States live less than two weeks. It is estimated.

One of the worst troubles in castrating lambs comes from tetanus following the operation.

Crops that are too coarse and woody to be eaten well when fed as roughage are readily eaten as silage.

Four to six weeks before lambing it is a good practice to begin feeding grain to ewes.

As soon as pigs begin to eat protein feeding should be started.

When sheep are ranged over the farm to gather waste crops their cost of production is low.

Pasture alone should not be depended upon to supply all the protein when hogs are fed liberally of fattening feeds.

Hogs on good alfalfa, clover, or rape pasture will require less commercial protein feed than those fed in dry lots.

Movie Gangster?

Edward ("Spike") O'Donnell, (above), Chicago gangster, who, if reports are true, has been offered $15,000 by an English theatrical company to portray the role of a Chicago gangster in pictures, "Spike" is reported to have accepted. He holds the distinction of having dodged more bullets than any other living gangster.

CAN SUCH THINGS BE?

Misfortunes do come singly, but even so they knock you flat.

A boy with a stomach half the size of a man's, can eat twice as much.

Sight-seeing tourists are already looking down on the Woolworth building.

A Denver manicurist has held hands with over five thousand men and not one of them ever proposed.

Many people have been driving a car so long, they can drive in their sleep and—more's the pity—they do.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

SIMILE CORNER

As out of tune with business as a piano tuner.

As depressing as a cold fried egg in a saucer of grease.

As hard to find as a deep sea diver smoking at his work.

As spotted as a New York magistrate's ermine.

As impossible as for Paul White-man to travel incognito.

As preoccupied as a politician thinking up a way to put another wrinkle in the treasury.

SAYS THE OWL

Murderers will out.

To the visitor belong the goils.

Too many crooks spoil the brew.

Let the punishment fit the crime.

The good die young; the old die hairy.

A little bit added to what you got goes for a new car.

If wishes were horses today they would merely be in the way.

Piles All Gone

Without Salves or Cutting
Itching, bleeding, protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and cutting fail because only an internal medicine can actually correct these conditions. Dr. J. S. Leonard discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in 960 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back.

Mary Lou confides in her friend, Larry Mitchell, young newspaper reporter. Dr. Matthews tells Travers that as Delight was very young at the time of their marriage and since believed him dead, it is only fair to begin all over with friendship. Mrs. Lorrimer acquaints Mary Lou with the details regarding Delight and her vain search for the girl. The following morning, Mary Lou is all set for her new role. Travers comes upon her at the dog kennels.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"O H, how you startled me!" were the first words she spoke to him.

Lorrimer came closer to her and, somehow, managed a smile.

"I didn't mean to," he said. "I hope I'm all done with startling you. You must forgive me, for yesterday, I—"

"Please," said Mary Lou, low, "it was as much my fault as yours."

Her voice was not as he remembered it all these years. It was lower, deeper, a little, enchantingly husky. But memory plays its strange tricks and time had passed. He leaned against the high fencing of the kennels and whipped his slender walking stick across the short grass.

The Play Begins

"We won't talk about it now," he said. "I just want you to know that I do understand. I understand your reticence and the complete shock it all must have been to you. If—if you had thought of me at all of late years it was not as I appeared to you, suddenly. Suppose we forget that, for a time. I—make no claim on you, Delight. Ask nothing of you but your confidence and, if you can give it to me, your friendship."

She seemed so little, suddenly, so entirely helpless, that he felt, amazingly, a curious sense of tender protectiveness, of power, almost. Unconsciously, his stooped shoulders straightened and for a moment he looked like a man who voluntarily assumes a task, who sets himself a goal.

She was smaller than he remembered her, prettier even, if that were possible. He didn't question her age. He knew, of course, that she was nearly of an age with himself, must be. But it didn't occur to him as unusual that time seemed to have stood still for her, as far as appearances went. But he did find, with a shock of astonishment, that she was somehow different, and now that he saw her again, divorced from the cataclysmic amazement of yesterday, really a stranger, some one other than the girl of his obstinate, sick memory. Somehow it made it both harder and easier.

He held his hand. "Friends—Delight?" he asked ner, and the smile was no longer authentic but genuine. His eyes shone with excitement, with anxiety, and there was color in the sallow, lean cheeks.

Mary Lou put her hand into his. The curtain was up, the prologue finished, the play itself was on.

And— "Friends," she promised gravely. "Say 'Lorry,'" he begged her, still holding that warm, vibrant little hand in his own. "You—used to!"

Mary Lou thanked her lucky stars for this piece of information. And her realization of her good fortune brought stars to her eyes and curves to her red mouth.

"Lorry—" she said, obediently. There was no withdrawal possible now. She had made her bargain and sealed it with a hand-clasp.

Cause to Wonder

Mary Lou's battered trunk, suitcase and box arrived safely at "Westwood House" forwarded by the faithful Larry, from whom she received a lengthy and wild letter, typed on yellow copy paper, demanding, cajoling, warning and pleading. Did she realize what she was getting into? demanded Larry, frantically. Would she never grow up? Of all the crazy, mad, insane and incredible schemes! However, if necessary, to get her out of this mess into which, idiotically, she appeared to have gotten herself. For himself, he could not believe a word of her explanation—that is, not with a sane and intelligent mind. And when could he come out and see for himself just what sort of monkey-business this appeared to be?

But Mary Lou wasn't quite ready to face Larry yet. She wrote soothingly, promising to keep in touch with him. She wrote, also, to her uncle and Clara. It would be many weeks before the letters would reach them and months before she would have their answer. She realized, setting down the facts in careful pithooks, on a "Westwood" paper, that it would all seem as unreal as a dream to the Sandersons. Well, it seemed unreal to her, she thought.

Yet her role was not hard to play, she found, as the days slipped by and gray snow clouds began to veil the horizon and there was a breath of winter, frosty and menacing, in the air. For Lorrimer made it as easy for her as possible, trying to keep his word to his mother and Doctor Matthews. It would have been an act of inhuman self-control on his part not to refer to what he thought was their mutual past.

That morning on which he had gone out to look for her and had found her at the kennels had passed quickly enough. He'd given her the best police puppy, "Konig," for her own, and had watched, with a hurting sort of pleasure in her happiness, her gentle, diplomatic overtures of friendship toward the beautiful, boisterous animal. Later, with Konig at his new owner's heels, they had gone back to the house, and Lorrimer had deliberately suffered the racing and barking and general rowdiness of the pup, not wishing to spoil the girl's pleasure in her new possession, and had found, to his own amazement, that once he made up his mind that he could not permit his nerves to rule him, he almost forgot the noisy accompaniment to their walk.

He was determined not to refer to the past in the deeply intimate personal sense. But he spoke, quite naturally, of the elapsed years and the hideous doubts which had consumed him. He asked, as casually as he could manage, what had happened to the cousins he remembered so well, and Mary Lou, thanking her lucky stars for the presence of the pup, managed, in her turn, to answer, her face averted, and interrupting herself now and then with commands or comments to Konig.

She had rehearsed her story time and time again. And now that she was forced to give a performance to this particularly important audience, she found herself doing it creditably. She told him that she had moved away from London, told him of the deaths, in an epidemic, of the "cousins" and of her permanent estrangement from her "mother." All this he accepted as perfectly reasonable. It all hung together. And as he believed her dead, and was determined not to speak of that particular phase of the situation, a stranger, overhearing their conversation, would have believed them old friends, separated by circumstances and reunited by chance.

"So," said Mary Lou, on a long breath of relief, "when I couldn't find anything to do I came over here, hoping to find some relatives of my—my father's. I had an opportunity to sail with an elderly American woman, a Mrs. Duncan, who paid my passage over. And I hadn't been here very long before I saw your mother's name in the paper and came out to see her on a chance that it might be her."

She stopped and flushed. She had been speaking gravely, a little breathlessly. It wasn't hard to think herself into the part; she had dreamed so long, had for so many years dramatized herself as the heroine of every book she read and every play she saw. And her sobriety lent a semblance of truth to her halting explanation.

"And it was," commented Lorrimer as soberly as she, "a very wonderful chance," he added, "for me."

Really Strangers

His deep, toneless voice took on faint vibrancy and color. Mary Lou, the flush deepening, whistled to Konig, who was off at a distance, gayly chasing a harmless and chattering squirrel up a tree. It was going to be difficult to ignore the personal equation, after all!

They had just passed the stables. Mary Lou cried out, in snatching at any conversational straw:

"I called on your horse this morning. What beauties they are! I wish," she said truly and wistfully, "that I knew how to ride."

"Don't you?" He bent his tall head and looked at her in some astonishment, and realized, with a pang of amazement, that he knew very little about her, after all. For all his dreaming and despair, his memories of gay, gallant loving, definitely snatched from time in the very face of death, his actual knowledge of her was so incomplete. Yet he had remembered trivial, small things, and, because he remembered, suddenly asked, half whimsically:

"Do you still adore artichokes, Delight?"

She started a little. It was to be some time before she could become accustomed to that exotic name.

Well, she did like them!

"Of course," said Mary Lou and smiled. "However did you remember?"

LIVE STOCK

GUINEA PIG AID TO SCIENTISTS

Of Especial Interest to Live Stock Breeders.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)—WNU Service.

It may be possible some day for the live stock producer to breed his animals in such a way as to speed up the growth of their offspring. Scientists of the United States Department of Agriculture have accomplished this with guinea pigs and believe the same principles may apply to live stock.

Dr. Hugh C. McPhee, geneticist of the bureau of animal industry, and his associates observed that inbreeding and cross-breeding of guinea pigs exerted a marked influence on the rapidity or slowness of the offspring's growth. They are starting new researches to test these scientific principles of inheritance on live stock, especially swine, sheep, and cattle.

If the live stock breeder could influence the rate of growth of his young farm animals as has been done with guinea pigs he would have control of an important element in the cost of production. It is generally accepted that rapid growth is economical growth.

The department scientists obtained various results by cross breeding the members of unrelated families of guinea pigs, each of which had been thoroughly inbred. When both parents were members of lightweight families the offspring grew faster and larger than either parent at the same age. When one parent was a lightweight and the other a heavyweight the offspring grew more nearly like the heavyweight parent, gaining especially fast in case the mother was the heavyweight. The investigators gained no advantage of growth by crossing two heavyweight families, but did improve the fertility of the offspring. The heaviest family of inbred guinea pigs outgrew all others during their first four months.

Three Cattle Problems on Feeding Discussed

Three questions of great importance to cattle feeders are discussed in a new bulletin just issued by the Minnesota agricultural experiment station. These questions involve the grinding of shelled corn, barley and alfalfa hay for fattening cattle, the feeding of molasses to fattening cattle, and the value of peatland hay as roughage for cattle.

Among the principal conclusions are the following:

When fattening cattle are being fed a ration of shelled corn and alfalfa hay, both feeds of fair quality, and hogs are following the cattle, no worthwhile advantage is to be gained by grinding either the corn or the alfalfa or by grinding both and mixing before feeding.

When a suitable ration of palatable feeds is being fed to fattening cattle, under conditions prevailing in Minnesota, the use of either small or large amounts of molasses in the ration has little effect upon the daily rate of gain and tends to lower the margin of profit over feed cost rather than to raise it.

Timothy or timothy and alsike clover mixed hay grown on properly fertilized peat soil will be palatable to cattle and show a feeding value equal or superior to similar hay grown on normal upland soil.

Copies of the bulletin may be had free by writing the Mailing Room, University Farm, St. Paul, and requesting Bulletin 274.

Live Stock Notes

Sheep require so little labor that they do not interfere with dairy work.

Do not work a slow horse or mule and a fast one together—match your teams for better work.

If we are to make a success of live stock farming, we must grow an abundance of feed.

More than 35 per cent of the pigs farrowed in the United States live less than two weeks. It is estimated.

One of the worst troubles in castrating lambs comes from tetanus following the operation.

Crops that are too coarse and woody to be eaten well when fed as roughage are readily eaten as silage.

Four to six weeks before lambing it is a good practice to begin feeding grain to ewes.

As soon as pigs begin to eat protein feeding should be started.

When sheep are ranged over the farm to gather waste crops their cost of production is low.

Pasture alone should not be depended upon to supply all the protein when hogs are fed liberally of fattening feeds.

Hogs on good alfalfa, clover, or rape pasture will require less commercial protein feed than those fed in dry lots.

Movie Gangster?

Edward ("Spike") O'Donnell, (above), Chicago gangster, who, if reports are true, has been offered $15,000 by an English theatrical company to portray the role of a Chicago gangster in pictures. "Spike" is reported to have accepted. He holds the distinction of having dodged more bullets than any other living gangster.

CAN SUCH THINGS BE?

Misfortunes do come singly, but even so they knock you flat.

A boy with a stomach half the size of a man's, can eat twice as much.

Sight-seeing tourists are already looking down on the Woolworth building.

A Denver manueurist has held hands with over five thousand men and not one of them ever proposed.

Many people have been driving a car so long, they can drive in their sleep and—more's the pity—they do.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

As out of tune with business as a piano tuner.

As depressing as a cold fried egg in a saucer of grease.

As hard to find as a deep sea diver smoking at his work.

As spotted as a New York magistrate's ermine.

As impossible as for Paul White-man to travel incognito.

As preoccupied as a politician thinking up a way to put another wrinkle in the treasury.

SAYS THE OWL

Murderers will out.

Piles All Gone

Without Salves or Cutting

Itching, bleeding, protruding piles go quickly and don't come back, if you remove the cause. Bad blood circulation in the hemorrhoidal veins causes piles by making the affected parts weak, flabby, almost dead. Salves and cutting fail because only an internal medicine can actually correct these conditions. Dr. J. S. Leonard discovered a real internal Pile remedy. After prescribing it for 1,000 patients with success in 960 cases, he named it HEM-ROID. H. P. Dunn, Johnson's Pharmacy says one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back.
